WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court refused today to interfere with use of evidence obtained by a federal alcohol tax agent who connected a tape recorder to his telephone ear piece when he talked with a prospective seller of bootleg whiskey.

Upholding use of the ear piece device and admission of the recorded conversation, the U.S. Circuit Court in New Orleans stated: "Taking a sensible view of it, the only difference between a person testifying to a conversation in which he participated or overheard and a recording of the conversation is that the recording has the advantage of furnishing trustworthy evidence."

R. Kennedy Wants To 'Sell' Capitalism

Urges American Leaders in All Fields to Go Abroad, Telling Story of the United States

NEW YORK (AP)—Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said today American leaders in the fields of government, education and the arts should be sent abroad to tell the story of the United States to the world.

"Capitalism has become a dirty word because it is synonymous with selfishness," Kennedy said in a speech prepared for the annual meeting of The Associated Press. "Many people in foreign lands believe that Americans are interested only in material gain, that they are not interested in their neighbors, not interested in their communities and not interested in those that are less well off," he said.

Fake Impressions

It is to counteract misinformation and dispel false impressions of the United States that the attorney general urged articulate spokesmen — politicians, professors, playwrights, poets — be sent through the world.

Kennedy, a younger brother of the President, returned seven weeks ago from a month-long goodwill tour of 10 countries. Along the way he discussed the United States in open debates with foreign students and reported on his return: "In my judgment unless we have an active program to provide these students with the information and facts for which they hunger we will lose the cold war no matter how much money we spend on aid—military or economic."

Today, the attorney general said his proposal to send lecturers to all nations would "help these young people know the facts about us and our way of life."

President Aware

An aide said President Kennedy was aware of the contents of the attorney general's speech.

Last month, commenting at a news conference about his brother's trip, the President observed that a number of high administration officials have traveled abroad and he said they should learn things and to tell people in other lands "that we have a very vital moving country here."

In today's address, Atty. Gen. Kennedy said individuals sent abroad under his proposal "should make tours of as many universities as possible and should confer with labor leaders, farm and cooperative leaders, newspaper editors, businessmen and government officials, as well as students."

Discussed Idea

He said he had discussed the idea recently with a businessman and a labor leader who had volunteered to speak at universities on trips they planned to the Far East.

"I know they both will make a favorable impression and they will help," Kennedy said. He did not identify them.

Kennedy said, "I would like to see many more people go—senators, Cabinet members, congressmen, governors, university professors, playwrights, and poets."

Much of the discussion at this week's meeting will serve as a basis for planning in connection with the International Years of the Quiet Sun. This period, 1964 to 1965, gets its name from the fact that the sun's activity is expected to be at a minimum during these years. There is considerable hope here that the Russians will join with us in exploration of the heavens during this period.

Scientific circles consider that this would be only a logical follow-up to the co-operative projects of the two nations in the Antarctic during the international geophysical year.

Legal Expense Insurance Under Study

Bar Association Considers Action On Pre-Paid Type

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Is there a need for a system of prepaid insurance to indemnify persons against legal expenses, after the pattern of the insurance plans for medical and hospital costs?

The executive officer of the State Bar of Wisconsin says the subject has been under study, and that interested lawyers are not yet convinced that it is practical or necessary.

The report came from Philip S. Habermann of the lawyers' association in the current edition of the journal of the bar.

Not Feasible

He said that the subject has been examined carefully, and that his conclusion is "that a formal program of providing insurance to cover legal expenses is neither economically feasible or necessary at this time." But he urged the bar to continue study of the matter, in the event that something that would not be only a "glorified retainer" may be evolved.

The bar official urged legal practitioners to promote the "personal legal check - up plan", through which clients are encouraged to consult their counsel regularly.

"Many lawyers believe it important that efforts be made to restore the lawyer to the position of counselor and advisor by establishing a true family-lawyer type of relationship," he wrote.

From rags to riches and now, almost overnight, back toward rags. "That's the story of my life," he said.

"About the time you think you have it made, the sky falls in on you."

Tropical Gardens

Gone, he says, is his hope of putting miniature palm trees and other tropical plants into homes all over the United States and Canada—of getting Americans to plant tropical gardens in their homes—and of making himself a mint in the process.

"It's all down the drain," he said, "five years of work and investment shot. We're washed up."

Until a week ago the ex-Arizona farmer considered himself rich and by most folks' standards, he was. He is one of the largest landscape contractors in the business, living in a home worth several hundred thousand dollars with a sweeping ocean view. He hoped to net at least a million dollars a year from indoor palm trees sold through supermarket and department store chains.

He employed 100 people to package the 30-inch palms in airtight wrappers, sold more than 100,000 trees last year sampling public demand. He hoped to sell palms at a 10,000-a-day clip. He waited for his palms to reach the age ment and landed in the water 25 feet from shore after she veered to avoid an oncoming car.

Oertel and Lemke, who were driving in separate cars en route to Easter services, saw the accident. Throwing off their suitcoats, they ran down the embankment and swam out to the woman.

The youths helped Mrs. Hooker struggle out of a car window and assisted her to shore. The car sank from sight a few seconds later.

Henry C. Soto, who had hoped to net a million dollars a year from the sale of small palm trees, looks over some of his 8 to 10 million ruined palms. "The trees began to wither a few weeks after being sprayed with weed killer. Soto believes his five-year effort would have been the first attempt to sell palm trees nationally on a large scale."

Rags to Riches to Rags

Dreams of Wealth End When Palm Trees Die

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (AP)—Henry C. Soto stood forlornly in the dust, staring at his millions of little wilted palm trees—row after row of them. They represented his biggest dream.

The rains were heavy this year. Weeds grew between the rows of thickly planted palms. Last month the 30 acres was sprayed for weed control. Five weeks ago trees began to wither, Soto says. One month later: 100 per cent loss.

Nobody knows what went wrong, Soto says. Experts are trying to find out. He tried the one thing specialists said might save the crop: flooding with water. It made the young trees die even faster. Insurance prospects are up in the air, he says. It would take four years to recoup in any case.

Soto estimates he lost 8 to 10 million little palms worth $3 million wholesale.

Armed Defiance Tests Missouri 'Blue Laws'

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Missouri's blue laws met armed defiance Sunday.

A man took a bottle of bleach and a box of detergent off the shelves of a store, put the money on the checkout counter and strode out.

Two clerks overtook the shopper on the sidewalk and explained that he couldn't buy soap on Sunday.

The shopper whipped out a pistol. "I need the soap and you got the money," he said, and walked away.

U Thant Revealed as Would-Be Journalist, Foe of Freud Theories

U.N. Secretary Discusses Life, Philosophy During TV Interview

BY MILT FREUDENHEIM

Chicago Daily News Service UNITED NATIONS — Acting Secretary General Thant has revealed details of his personal life as a one-time boy journalist, faithful diary keeper, and a contemplative man who rejects the theories of Sigmund Freud.

The Burma diplomat discussed his life and philosophy in an interview released Sunday to world-wide radio and television stations. He also defended United Nations voting rights of one vote for every nation, rich or poor, with a reference to New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

One Vote Apiece

"For instance, in Manhattan," he said, "When the time for election comes I think Mr. Rockefeller gets one vote; and your elevator man or my doorman also gets one vote."

"And Mr. Rockefeller may be contributing millions of taxes to the treasury, while the elevator man may have contributed a mere $5."

On the personal side, Thant, 53, told interviewer Alistair Cooke, of U.N. Television, his boyhood ambition was to be a political journalist.

As a 15-year-old Boy Scout, he published an article on school experiences in "The Burma Boy," monthly publication of the Burma Boy Scouts' Association.

Daily Diary

The next year, he began keeping a daily diary that he has continued for the 37 years since. He admits to "a certain sense of satisfaction" arising from this record of his acts and thoughts.

Thant's hobbies are swimming, hiking and reading serious books. He also tries to set aside time for quiet thinking.

A Buddhist, Thant rejects Vienna Psychologist Freud's theories that men's emotions, such as malice and hate, must be released, brought out into the open.

"I don't agree with this theory, of course," he said. "I am a believer in the necessity of emotional stability. I am against all emotional outbursts, if I may say, hysteria, for instance."

This "stability" can be achieved as "a matter of training," he added. He is hopeful that philosophies of the Eastern countries may help temper Western theories of science without moral discipline.

"The emotional side of man has been dominant for a long time," he explained. "I think mental qualities like bitterness and intolerance and hysteria have been rampant all over the world."

Intellect Development

"I think in the West the stress is on the development of the intellect... the attempt to master yourself and your environment."

But in the East, "traditionally the stress is more on the moral and spiritual development of man... starting with oneself."

"We try to get at the truth by contemplation and meditation. We try to explore what is happening inside of us."

Course Organization Important Foundation to Superior Grades

BY LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D. Professor of Education, University of Southern California

Organizing your course is a big part of the battle to get good grades.

You can't really understand a subject until you are able to relate its various parts into a whole. It's well to know how to do this by yourself. You can't expect your teacher always to do it for you. For example, I received this letter recently:

Dear Dr. Nason:

My daughter is having difficulty with a college freshman course called "Man and Civilization." She says the instructor's lectures seem to have no pattern or organization. Please give us some suggestions.

Mrs. R.S., Pasadena, Calif.

Have your daughter outline each chapter of her textbook BEFORE it is covered in class. The outlines should be as brief as possible and set down in complete sentences.

Have her also make up a time chart of the period being studied, with important names, dates and events arranged in sequence.

If she takes these to class with her and organizes her class notes accordingly, the instructor's lectures probably will become clear. I am 13 years old and in the eighth grade. My counselor tells me, "With a mind like yours, you should be making high grades." I like some of the courses I take—gym and printing. But I would rather go to the movies than read a book. Some people say that books are more interesting than a movie. I say no! I don't think anything could be more interesting than a suspense movie. What is my problem? Doug, Bethesda, Md.

I agree with your counselor.

Sen. Dean to Head Platform Committee For State Democrats

MADISON (AP)—State Senator Robert Dean of Wausau was named Saturday as chairman of the platform committee of the 1962 Democratic state convention.

State Chairman Patrick J. Lucey also announced the appointment of State Senator Lynn Stalbaum of Racine as vice chairman of the committee. Stalbaum is a vice chairman of the party. Dean is an attorney and first term senator from the 29th District, consisting of Marathon, Shawano and Menominee counties. He is Senate minority floor leader. As committee chairman he will head a 15-member group responsible for drafting the party's platform for presentation to delegates to the state convention at Sheboygan June 22 and 23.

With a mind like yours you will not be happy unless you eventually are in a profession or have a very good job. In any case, you will need an education. And, unless you change some of your ways, you are not going to get it! Try doing your school work because it NEEDS to be done. Make a game of trying to get A's in every subject. Prove to yourself that you can do this by giving it a try. School will be more fun. Make yourself read a few good books. You may be surprised to find that they ARE better than movies!

Dear Dr. Nason:

My teachers tell me to outline my answers before trying to write. This is difficult for me, so I usually skip the outlines and just write. I usually get a C with a note "lacks organization". Can you help me?

O.A., Miami

Most people have the same difficulty in constructing formal outlines, especially when time is short. Try this as a substitute procedure:

Write on a piece of scratch paper the ideas that come to your mind as part of the answer. Write down these ideas as they come to you. This is not an outline.

Decide which idea should be presented first. Start writing. Your mind now is free to concentrate on one item at a time. State your point clearly, with examples or illustrations, and then turn your full attention to the next point. This will give coherence and unity to your answers.

The Profitable Side of Farming

For many years fantastic stories of big profits being made by millionaire farmers and by others have been related to the various programs intended to help the dirt farmer. There have been tales of speculators leasing land from the federal government only to place it in the land bank at a tremendous profit. Other stories tell of hard-working farmers who have received checks from the federal government which were unexpected and unexplained.

It now appears that some of the easy money may have been going to important functionaries in the vast agricultural bureaucracy. The department announced recently that it had dismissed William E. Morris from the department's credit service and it has asked the FBI to look into the activities of former Assistant Agricultural Sec. James T. Ralph and Emery E. Jacobs, who recently resigned as deputy director of the agricultural stabilization and conservation service.

All three of the former officials are suspected of having dealings with Billie Sol Estes, the Texas farm tycoon who has been indicted for fraud.

The Texas state board of inquiry at Dallas has been investigating Estes' financial dealings in West Texas agricultural mortgages. It is reported that six elevators Estes controls have contracts for the storage of 33 million bushels of government grain, sorghums and wheat valued at $36 million. The inquiry board recently heard testimony that Jacobs had been in the Nieman-Marcus store in Dallas last September, that he had ordered a suit and other clothing mailed to the apartment of his secretary, Mrs. Margaret S. Campbell, in Washington. The testimony indicated that a Mr. Jacobs and other men were with Mr. Estes in the Dallas store and that the two other men were agricultural department officials. A clerk in the store testified that a "big red haired man" went into a fitting room with Estes and came out with a handful of bills and paid for a size 48 regular suit and other clothing. Jacobs' nickname is "Red."

Jacobs, Ralph and Morris have been invited to Texas by state Atty. Gen. Will Wilson to testify before the board. The three officials were in Dallas last Sept. 8 for regional government farm meetings and Jacobs was there, also, on Oct. 25.

Estes and three associates were indicted by a federal grand jury on April 5 on charges of committing 57 acts of fraud. They were accused of plotting to defraud nine of the country's large finance and investment companies. The fraud was reported to involve mortgages on hydrous ammonia tanks that the government charged did not exist. State's Attorney Wilson wants to know if Estes showered gifts on agricultural department officials to get them to put grain in his elevators. The government has paid him $8 million storage fees in the past three years.

It's the old, old story of corruption in Washington. Where there is so much money being handed about so freely fraud seems to be inevitable.

Too Many Tests

A recent conference in Atlantic City, involving a survey of some 35,000 educators, concluded that there are some tests given to high school students that contain too much trivia in attempts to pigeonhole or label youngsters. This is particularly true of tests for students preparing for college.

Of course college admissions directors do not merely glance at test results to determine which students shall be admitted. Probably the most concerned people in the country, outside of the students, are admissions directors who are expected to determine an applicant's worth, potential, adjustment, suitability to a particular college and probabilities of success. Test results are important but so are high school records, the comparison of probable potential with achievement to date, the aims and ambitions of the student, his maturity, his outside activities, and his apparent fitness for a certain college or university.

But to whatever use tests are put by college admissions directors, they unfortunately have influenced both students and teachers out of proportion to their worth. Some tests rate acceptable pat answers rather than creativity or intellectual curiosity. English teachers find they must emphasize grammar and spelling instead of literature. History comes down to a matter of battles and dates. Math and science becomes a lesson in "right" answers instead of individual experimentation. What teacher can wax inspirational about sentence diagramming or lists of Latin verbs?

Obviously much of the knowledge the tests seek to evaluate should be learned. But the overemphasis upon the kind of answers that can be graded by a machine is shortsighted. And so is the concern engendered among the students over their grades upon the myriad of tests.

The solution to the problem is not easy. Probably a student aiming for college should take every test available so as to compare the results and gain a better insight as to his possible abilities and limitations. But in the long run we must rely upon the common sense of some students, some parents and some educators to recognize that tests can never really measure anyone's potential or worth.

Blaming the Devil

And the Devil said to Simon Legree, "I like your style, so wicked and free."
—Vachel Lindsay

The tragedy of Mrs. B. J. Gaillot of New Orleans, the segregationist leader who has been excommunicated by her archbishop, is that she is attempting most seriously to justify an un-Christian attitude through Christianity. Even more apparent, she has carried the fear of the Great Conspiracy to its ultimate. As she told the archbishop while asking for his blessing, he was not to blame for desegregating the schools or even for her excommunication. It was the Devil. "Don't listen to Satan. Listen to God," she said.

All through history the Devil has been blamed for human mistakes from the Spanish Inquisition and the persecution of the witches of London to the witch hysteria in New England.

But today, behind much of the concern over communism and plots, there seems to be a belief that the individuals accused are not really to blame. Eisenhower was an "unwitting" Red advocate. The nation's "secular" press doesn't know what it is doing. Fluoridation of drinking water will make us all spineless ninnies. The income tax was put over on the American people by some strange machination of unseen forces. Our youth are being corrupted through a clever plan involving sexy books, socialist texts, and bikini bathing suits.

Now at last we have found the master mind behind the plot that are in reality so devilishly clever. It is Satan himself who sat on the U. S. Supreme Court bench when the segregation decision was made.

We probably should feel a little better now that the discovery has been made and our adversary known to be such an important figure. As Milton wrote in Paradise Lost:

*High on a throne of royal state, which far
Outshone the wealth of Ormus
and of Ind,
Or where the gorgeous East
with richest hand
Showers on her kings barbaric
pearl and gold,
Satan exalted sat, by merit
rais'd
To that bad eminence.*

We agree with the advice of leaders of several faiths that the best way to fight the enemy, whether Communists or the Devil himself, is to cry out against tyranny in any form.

Seattle's Monorail

Seattle's World's Fair may have many attractions but for most people the first impression of it will be associated with the monorail system of transportation. The Alweg Rapid Transit System of Washington State, Inc., is investing about $4,200,000 in a monorail line which will extend 2.2 miles from downtown Seattle to the Century 21 Fairgrounds. The advance publicity on this transportation idea has been tremendous and, no doubt, transit officials throughout the nation will examine it with keen interest.

Transportation is a real problem in every city in the United States. The monorail plan is attractive because of the high speed trains it promises and because, according to most estimates, it can be installed at an estimated cost of as little as $1 million per mile. In comparison, freeways come to $4 million to $6 million and subways $25 million to $30 million per mile. Furthermore, it is pointed out that monorails operate off the ground on rails hung between two giant supporting columns. The only right-of-way needed is 4 square feet of ground space at intervals of 50 to 100 feet.

The Seattle monorail was designed and built by a West German firm set up by the late international industrialist Alex Werner-Gren. It is supposed to transport 10,000 visitors an hour to the fairgrounds. It will be interesting to see how well it does in actual service during the fair. If the Seattle fair does nothing else it will provide a remarkable demonstration of the effectiveness or ineffectiveness of the monorail system. Many cities already have shown an intense interest in it.

The District of Columbia's transit system is reported to be considering a plan to operate an overhead high speed rail service between Georgetown and Dulles airport. If the monorail idea lives up to expectations at the Seattle Fair there may be a rash of monorail construction in the United

Thoughts of One Who Soon May Have to Go to a 'Home'

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Sitting here, on this beautiful spring morning, thinking of the many changes that have taken place during the 78 years of my life, some for better, some for worse, one wonders why, at this ripe age, we still have worries. But we do. We have to face the most difficult, and hardest event of all. Maybe it is because it comes so near the end of our stay here on earth. That is knowing, the time is not far off, when we will very likely have to change our home for bed and board in an "old folks home."

Now, don't get your dander up. I know there are many nice "homes" where they are given kindly care, cleanliness, and well-cooked food such as old folks require. But we also know there are some not so nice. Many over-charge. There is little privacy because there are too many in one room. Privacy is something old folks appreciate so very much. Just a small, clean single room to one's self rather than a large, and perhaps better furnished double room to share with one or two others. I realize there are some that may prefer a roommate. But I think they are few and far between. I had a sister who lived in a home for the aged eleven years. A very nice place. Reasonable too. I noticed that those who were in a room alone seemed so much more contented. Where there were more in a room there was constant bickering. One wanted the window open, another wanted it closed.

TV and radio also cause quite a problem. There is the recreation room but many who are up and around are unable to climb the stairs. And if there is no elevator they are out of luck. I have lived alone for many years and my food, up to now, has never run higher than one dollar a day. I do a bit of baking, which helps some, and is good - exercise. This amount gives me plenty of good, common food including meat, vegetables, fruit, milk and eggs. I have my own home so there are taxes to pay. My house is medium size. That means there is quite a fuel bill. Also insurance on the house. But I can still get along on much less money than I would have to pay for one room and board in a home for the aged.

I am not writing about the bed-ridden ones but of those

Suggests Referendum On Airport

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Congratulations to Mr. Norman Bull. His article in the April 17th People's Forum hit the nail right on the head.

I sincerely hope all members of the County Board of Supervisors read it several times before they reach a point of no return at their May board meeting.

I respectfully want to make one suggestion to the Board of Supervisors while there still is time. Why not take the question of "to be or not to be" to the people and let them decide in a referendum vote?

If the people who foot the bills vote in favor of the new airport, the additional taxes will be of their own choosing and nobody need complain. If the people vote down the new airport proposal, it is their own doing, too. Maybe just this once the voters might be able to settle something a handful of experts and airport lobbyists are unable to do.

As for me or Mr. Average Outagamie County Citizen who takes a very occasional airplane trip, Greenville is too far to walk, too, so we may as well drive to Oshkosh and use the saved tax money for something like schools and better teachers' wages or a number of other very necessary projects.

Let's try to forget this hullabaloo of trying to keep up with the Jones's in the next county. So what if they did get the jump on us with their better airports? Americanism, yes, we need much more of that, but Countyism — that's carrying things a trifle bit too far.

When Is Chasing Auto Speeder Recklessness?

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I would like to raise the question regarding the accident that took place after a high - speed chase, on Newberry St. at approximately 1:00 a.m. Sunday.

First: At what point of recklessness and speed does an officer feel that the pursuit of an automobile is endangering innocent lives? With the radio system as it is today, isn't it possible to radio ahead for a roadblock? Within minutes after this particular accident, there were at least four police cars and an ambulance at the scene. So apparently the radio was used.

Second: If a car traveling over 100 mph were overtaken, how would it be stopped? Approximately 5,000 feet farther along this road are two taverns, closing at this hour. What a terrible climax this evening could have had. After putting the kids to bed and going out for a little relaxation, to be the innocent victim of an unlicensed, therefore uninsured, driver. Also, God only knows what prevented that car from hitting the residential side of the road and burying itself in someone's house.

Third: What are 17 year old children doing out at 1.00 in the morning? Maybe a little more parental discipline starting about 17 years before would be the answer.

State Constitution Limits Redistricting

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — To the extent that the petition of the attorney general to the U. S. courts on legislative redistricting purports to show the ideal in numerical equality of distribution of the seats in the state legislature, it presents a distorted picture of the reality or the attainable.

Wyngaard

Mr. Reynolds told the federal judges, who have now agreed to hear his suit, that a numerically equal population for each assembly district would give it about 39,518 inhabitants, and each senate district about three times that number.

There is nothing especially wrong with Mr. Reynolds' arithmetic.

But not even the power of the U. S. courts, it may be presumed, can amend the state constitution which sets up the standards for legislative districting.

And the state constitution is so phrased that the numerically equal ideal cannot be attained. It can only be approximated in the roughest terms. In the absence of any showing to the contrary, moreover, it must be presumed that the men who wrote the restrictions in the reapportionment clause of the constitution knew what they were doing. Apparently they regarded other considerations in organizing the legislature as more important than arithmetical accuracy.

THE FACTS

The fact that numerically equal representation is not possible under the constitutional language that is involved is rarely reported in the press, and rarely acknowledged by the politicians. Thus there is a considerably who are able to dress themselves and come to the table for their meals. I am pretty sure that $125 would give the home a good profit on each person. Most of the homes start at $150 or $175. From there on up. Old folks, owning a home in the $10,000 bracket, would find themselves 'broke at the end of four, or five years at the most. Why not think it over? Give us a break.

Union Chalks Up Another Victory

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for April 26, 1862.

On the 17th inst. (April 17), Gen. Reno left Newberne, Tenn., and proceeded to Roanoke Island, from which place he took about 2,000 men and proceeded to Elizabeth City, where a strong force was reported to be entrenching themselves.

On Saturday the advance was made upon the rebels. The enemy opened fire with artillery as soon as our troops made their appearance, and from all indications, thought they had us in a trap of our own making.

Our troops immediately formed and charged on the enemy, who ran at the first fire. We then took possession of the town and, after remaining a few hours, retired to the main army. Our force was about 2,000 under Gen. Reno with three boat howitzers under Col. Howard.

The forces of the rebels consisted of a Georgia regiment of 1,100 men, a portion of Wise's Legion, and two batteries of artillery.

The enemy was totally routed with a loss of 60 men. Our loss was 12 killed and 43 wounded.

Cloistered World of Supreme Court Called 'Life of Slavery'

Few Citizens Know What Occurs Behind Bronze Chamber Doors

BY W. B. RAGSDALE JR.

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Byron R. White became the junior member of the Supreme Court he entered a cloistered world that has been called "a life of slavery."

Few Americans know what goes on behind the bronze doors that shield the justices from public view when they are not hearing cases and handing down decisions a few hours each week.

Although the justices are tough-minded individualists who differ strenuously, they usually fight their battles in private. Their staffs match the Central Intelligence Agency in close-mouthed service.

Impeachment Threats
Even threats of impeachment fail to stir public response from the Supreme Court. The justices speak through their decisions.

White already knew more about the court than most new justices. He served as law clerk to the late Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson and was the first former law clerk to be named associate justice.

As a law clerk, he reviewed petitions, did research and generally assisted the chief justice. But only the justices are admitted to the oak-paneled conference room on Friday when the court decides what cases will be heard, what will be done with cases that have been heard and who will write the opinion.

Lone Requirement
The only legal requirement for the court is that it begin its annual session on the first Monday in October.

Normally, the court hands down decisions Monday mornings. The first four days of the week are reserved for hearing cases. The schedule usually calls for hearing cases two weeks and spending the next two writing opinions.

Under the policy of the court, as explained by Justice Tom C. Clark: "Each justice passes on each petition, each item. Judging is not delegated. Each justice studies each case in sufficient detail to resolve the question without leaving any doubt in his mind."

Nine Hour Day
Justices generally spend about nine hours a day at the office, frequently come in on Saturday and work nights and weekends at home.

The work goes on even during the summer recess. Petitions are mailed to the justices at their homes for their study. One justice stays in Washington at all times to handle emergency pleas and petitions.

The justices have lunch together most weekdays in a private dining room just behind the bench in the courtroom. But outside the court, they generally go their own ways.

Eighteen cases are set for hearing in the first two weeks of White's court term. These oral arguments frequently provide a glimpse into the workings of the court.

Cases normally are decided in the same week they are heard, but it may be months before all can agree on an opinion. Petitions for review of lower court rulings also are disposed of the week they are received.

The major business of the week comes on Friday, when the justices file into the conference room, shake hands all around, according to their tradition, and sit down at their long table, arranged carefully according to seniority.

Only Justices
This period, Justice Clark says, "is more important than what happens in the court room."

There are no clerks, pages or secretaries. Only the justices are present. As junior member, White will serve as the doorman.

First item on the conference list is petitions for Supreme Court review, usually 70 to 80 per week but sometimes as many as several hundred.

On the average, the court hears about 150 cases a year. A case is heard if four justices think it merits review. Dismissal is not a decision on the merits of the case.

Order of Seniority
The chief justice begins all discussions, followed by the other justices in order of seniority. Voting is in reverse order.

After the vote is recorded in cases that have been argued, opinions are assigned. The chief justice makes the assignments when he is the majority side. Otherwise, the senior justice on the prevailing side decides who will write the majority opinion. Anyone can write a dissent.

Writing an opinion that incorporates the views of a number of strong-minded men is not easy. A few years ago, Justice William J. Brennan Jr. wrote the majority opinion in a case, then a separate opinion with views he apparently had been unable to get his colleagues to accept.

Writing decisions is easy for some justices, a great effort for others.

Douglas Fast
A former law clerk says Justice Douglas normally finishes his opinions within a week after they are assigned and quickly cleans up his workload.

For the late Justice Willis Van Devanter writing an opinion was drudgery.

Opinions are printed in the Supreme Court basement, then circulated among the justices. When the wording finally is agreed upon, a Friday conference decides which opinions shall be read the following Monday.

But even then, a justice may decide at the last minute not to read the opinion until further work is done on it. Sometimes even the justices don't know just what the Supreme Court will decide on a given Monday.

'Ice Age Park' Supported in New Brochure

Interior Department Wants Establishment Of Scientific Reserve

BY RICHARD P. POWERS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interior Department says nowhere on the continent is the stamp of the ice age more evident and impressive than in Wisconsin.

The department, in a 16-page illustrated brochure, supports legislation calling for an Ice Age National Scientific Reserve in the state. It is sponsored by Sen. Alexander Wiley, R-Wis., and Reps. Henry S. Reuss and Lester R. Johnson, Wisconsin Democrats.

President Kennedy earlier this year recommended creation of the scientific reserve which would preserve the moraines and other glacial features left when the last continental ice sheet receded 10,000 years ago.

"Stupendous Thing"
"The continental ice sheet was a stupendous thing, which few of us can really visualize," the Interior Department's brochure said.

"The maximum advances of the Wisconsin stage...left a belt of conspicuous glacial features...and a number of areas there can best help us to comprehend the ice age story," the brochure added.

Four important areas, the brochure said, are the Kettle Moraine of southeastern Wisconsin, the nearby Drumlins of Campbellsport, the Devils Lake area in the Baraboo range and the end moraine of the glacial lobe that once advanced across Chippewa County.

These four areas, comprising about 33,000 acres, would be designated as an Ice Age National Scientific Reserve under the administration-backed proposal.

This reserve would be administered by Wisconsin in cooperation with the secretary of the interior and with local governments.

The federal government could finance up to half the cost of land acquisitions, half the cost of maintenance physical features, and three-fourths of the cost of providing interpretive facilities and services.

"It is a story for the whole of America, this million-year cataclysm that shaped half our land and in whose temperate summer we now live, and it would be fitting for the federal government to provide funds and skills for the telling," the brochure said.

Dean to Head Platform Committee at State Democratic Convention

State Sen. Robert Dean (D-Wausau) was named chairman of the 1962 Democratic State Convention Platform Committee today by State Chairman Patrick J. Lucey, Madison, Wis., who is Senate minority floor leader, will head a 15-member Committee responsible for drafting the party's 1962 platform to be considered by state convention delegates in Sheboygan, June 22 and 23.

Lucey also announced the appointment of State Sen. Lynn Stalbaum (D-Racine) as platform committee vice-chairman.

Dean, who practices law in Marathon County, is completing his first term as senator from the 29th District which includes Marathon, Shawano and Menominee Counties. During the last session, Dean served on the Committee on Highways. Stalbaum, who represents Racine County, is completing his second term in the state legislature, where he was a member of the Labor, Taxation, Insurance and Banking committee. AP Supplies News to 4,000 U. S. Members

Figures Given in Annual Report by Board of Directors

NEW YORK (AP)—The Associated Press now is supplying its service to more than 4,000 newspaper and broadcasting members in the United States and to 87 countries abroad, the AP Board of Directors said today in its annual report.

The report was read at the annual meeting of The Associated Press prior to a luncheon featuring an address by U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The meeting also voted for six directors to fill expiring terms on the 18-member board and on the admission of six associated member newspapers to full membership.

Active News Year

Citing a "tremendously active news year at home and abroad" the report said:

"The demands upon The Associated Press were extensive and ever-broadening. The value of the service to the membership was materially enhanced.

"An important factor was the constantly increasing effectiveness of member cooperation: in supplying news and newsphotos, in providing worthwhile development ideas, and in policing the product.

"The number of members and subscribers increased around the world, climbing to more than 4,000 newspaper and broadcasting members in the United States, while the distribution to subscribers abroad expanded into 87 countries."

Requirements Strained

The report said burgeoning news coverage requirements have strained the resources of the organization, but "the management succeeded in meeting the requirements efficiently and we believe at a minimum increase in expense."

"Nevertheless the board felt it prudent," the report said, "to provide for an increase in basic service revenue in the application of the decennial revision based on the 1960 census. The board instructed that individual increases, whether resulting from population shifts or rising costs, be apportioned equitably but insofar as practical in an orderly progression."

French Army Spy Trapped Salan

Captain Infiltrated Into Ranks of the Secret Army

BY PAUL GHALI
Chicago Daily News Service

The inside story of the capture of Gen. Raoul Salan, chief of the Secret Army Organization, was revealed here today.

His capture was brought about by a French army captain who had infiltrated the ranks of the Secret Army. He had been within the terrorist organization when he sought and obtained permission for an interview with Salan.

The appointment was set for Friday noon at 23 Rue Desfontaines in Algiers, the apartment house in which Salan's wife and daughter made their home.

Messali was angered over being left out of the Evian armistice negotiations and was ready to ally his forces with the secret army. It was because of the importance of this information that Salan agreed to meet with the captain.

The captain had been with Salan until few minutes before police and soldiers knocked at the door, at which time he had retired to a washroom to await developments.

The Secret Army Sunday demonstrated it intends to carry on despite Salan's arrest.

Gardy Named

It immediately announced the selection of former Gen. Paul Gardy as head of the movement to replace Salan and burst out in a new flurry of bombings and assassinations.

Gardy's appointment was accepted without misgivings by his colleagues because he is the highest ranking rebel officer left in Algeria since the arrest of Edmond Jouhaud and Salan.

Gardy had replaced Jouhaud as head of the Secret Army's Organization when Jouhaud was arrested March 26. He had also the firing of Lakewood Principal Raymond Oestreich, who had opposed the McGuffey, on grounds of "incompatibility," and six of 11 teachers at the school have said they will not return next fall. Two of them said they were fired.

Diplomacy Lacking

Judge Baker also said in his decision, "In this burning desire to establish a system, which some call the old-fashioned system of teaching the art of reading, they (the four) were in no mood to accept opposition and perhaps they were not always diplomatic in dealing with the view of others in the community...."

"It is just as apparent, however, that there are those in the community who oppose this method of teaching and they too have been sturdy and positive in their convictions."

"From all this has developed what appears to be a community struggle resulting in the pressing of these charges. I am convinced that the only proper solution to and determination and termination of the issues arising in this case is through the democratic process of the ballot box." The terms of Beula and Pfeiffer expire this summer.

Judge Baker also said he would make "no finding in this case the taxpayers have brought these charges out of malice and without probable cause."

Monkey Flips Lid; Eats 200 Lizards Plus Few Parakeets

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Jo-Jo really had himself a ball. But it's going to take two weeks to clean up.

Jo-Jo is a 1-year-old Capuchin monkey. He flipped his lid for 30 minutes Sunday inside a pet shop. After springing the latch on his cage in the darkened shop, Jo-Jo ate 200 lizards and dined on a few parakeets. Then he threw bird seed, crockery, planters, pet food and supplies from the counters into the aisles.

Sue Garrison, an employee, said, "It'll take two weeks to clean up this mess. He must have been afraid to be alone."

A 27-year-old Madison man, Spencer Guldud, died in a Madison hospital Sunday of injuries suffered Friday afternoon when the car in which he was a passenger failed to make an S-curve on Highway 14 about two miles south of Madison. Kefauver Not To Seek Steel Price Curbs WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., says he never would sponsor a bill to roll back steel prices.

Instead, the chairman of the Senate Antitrust subcommittee said, the best remedies for the steel price-wage problem are public opinion and improved antitrust laws.

The subcommittee has launched an investigation of the steel industry. Kefauver gave his views on a television program, NBC, "Meet the Press" Sunday.

Found No Remedy

Kefauver said that even if his subcommittee finds steel prices are too high in relation to costs and profits he would not sponsor a bill to cut prices.

Asked if he had found a remedy for the situation, he replied: "Not really. The force of public opinion is one approach. The other way of trying to deal with the matter is to improve our antitrust laws."

He said that a proposal requiring steel companies to wait 80 days before putting a proposed price increase into effect is worthy of consideration. But he indicated he thought the proposed 80-day cooling off period, similar to that required now by the Taft-Hartley law in certain strike threats, might also be applied to proposed wage increases.

He repeated his claim that steel is an administered price industry in which we badly need competition. He said prices are set by the leader of the industry.

Kennedy Plans Third Cruise On His Yacht

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President Kennedy returned to paperwork today but planned to get in a third cruise aboard the presidential yacht during his Easter work-and-relax vacation.

During the next four days Kennedy will prepare for conferences with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, who is scheduled to arrive in Washington Friday, the same day the President returns to the capital.

Easter Sunday was a relaxed and leisurely day for Kennedy.

In the morning, the President, his wife and two children went to the home of his father, Joseph every 10 seconds for 40 minutes down to an altitude of 15 miles.

The spacecraft then ejects a 12-inch sphere wrapped in a 24-inch coating of shock-absorbent balsa wood. A tiny reverse rocket attached to the 89.3-inch ball slows the speed so it will land at a velocity of 80 to 120 miles an hour. The main body of the payload crashes at 6,000 miles and is destroyed.

The instrument package contains a seismometer, temperature gauge and radio transmitter designed to relay data to earth for at least 30 days.

Measurement Data

The body wave data produced by moonquakes or meteor hits could determine if the moon has a crust similar to the Earth's.

Two other devices attached to the main body are to take measurements up to the point of impact. They are a gamma ray spectrometer to detect uranium, thorium, radium and potassium radioisotope emissions, and a radar antenna to test the moon's radar reflectivity.

If Ranger 4's capsule impacts, it will be the first active payload to land on the moon. Russia crashed Lunik II on the moon in 1959, but it was destroyed instantly.

The Soviets also took the first pictures of the moon's previously unseen backside in 1959 with Lunik III, a wide-swinging earth satellite that zipped around the moon on its initial orbit.

The United States has fired seven previous rockets toward the moon in attempts to hit it, circle it or pass close to it. All failed.

P. Kennedy, for a private family Mass.

Then, under sunny skies, the President took his wife and several friends aboard the yacht Honey Fitz and glided out on Lake Worth.

Mrs. Kennedy, in a melon pink swim suit, displayed some expert water skiing, racing along on a single ski around the yacht for almost five minutes. She was towed by a speedboat.

The President, in gray slacks and sweater, relaxed in the big brown leather swivel chair on the back deck.

TO THE ONE CAR OWNER IN EVERY 4 IN THIS AREA WHO WILL "SWITCH" GASOLINES THIS YEAR:

The millions that Skelly has spent to take things out of gasoline, and the detergent-action KT-3 Skelly adds, are 2 of the big reasons...

Why Skelly Regular Gasoline Is Now The Best Regular Gasoline Regardless Of Price:

New Skelly Regular can give you more miles per gallon, more pick-up and power, and — most important — far longer engine life with fewer trips to the shop.

Here are 2 important and dramatic reasons why new Skelly Regular Gasoline keeps car engines cleaner longer than other regular grade gasolines. Both are part of the way Skelly makes gasoline in order to bring you the best regular gasoline in this area — regardless of price:

FIRST: Skelly's scientific "SUBTRACTIVE" Refining Process minimizes, neutralizes, dissolves, removes sticky gums, scratchy solids, poisonous sulfurs, corrosive acids and other harmful substances common to raw petroleum as it comes out of the ground. The result is a clean, clear, almost unbelievably pure Skelly Gasoline as it comes from the refinery.

SECOND: Skelly's detergent-action ADDITIVE called KT-3 is then injected into Skelly Regular—NOT at the refineries but at all Skelly distribution points. Here's what these two important steps together mean to you:

EVERY CAR OWNER knows that raw petroleum, as it comes out of the ground, contains many corrosive and abrasive substances that are harmful to moving metal parts.

These substances, even in tiny quantities, are harmful to high speed engines in today's modern cars. In combustion chambers, they can build damaging deposits on pistons, rings, cylinder walls and valves. In carburetors, gummy deposits can clog tiny passages, cause delicate parts to stick, and upset the scientifically correct fuel-air mixture that your engine needs to run smoothly, economically and efficiently.

Skelly solves this problem in two vital ways that are important to every car owner who wants to prevent needless engine wear and cut gasoline costs.

First, We Subtract . . .

At the refinery—to bring you the cleanest, purest gasoline you can buy—Skelly removes, reduces, and minimizes unwanted substances through its superior "subtractive" refining process.

Then, We Add . . .

Then, at all Skelly distribution centers—to overcome the effects of harmful deposits already in your car's carburetor and engine, and to keep additional new deposits from forming—Skelly adds detergent-action KT-3. And KT-3 does not, because it cannot, build excessive deposits of its own.

Skelly Laboratory Tests Prove Startling Advantages:

In tests in our laboratories, against nearly 40 leading gasoline additives, Skelly KT-3 cleaned 30% better in carburetors; 20% better in valve areas; 19% better in intake systems. Even in combustion chambers, KT-3 cleaned 12% better.

Based on these tests, we say that Skelly Regular Gasoline with KT-3 can give you — beyond doubt — the finest engine performance on regular gasoline that your car has ever known. And you can get all the benefits of KT-3 just by driving!

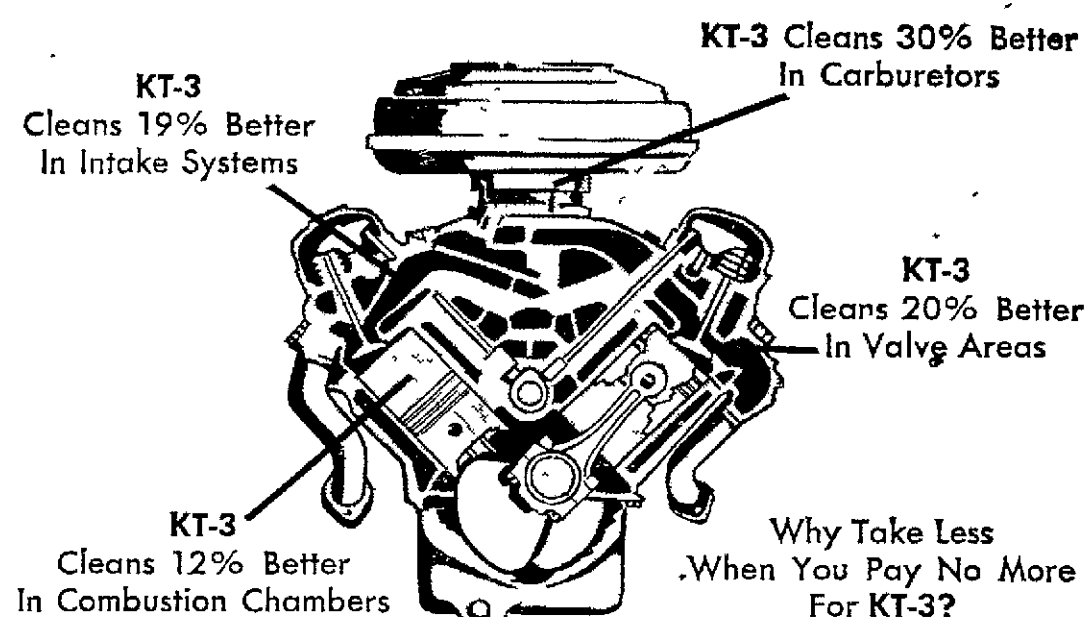

You Pay No More For KT-3

With the first few tankfuls of new Skelly Regular with KT-3, you notice that your engine starts faster. New pick-up and surging power seem to come right through the steering wheel. You enjoy sweet motor rhythm. Mileage goes up. Vapor-lock, needless repair bills and tune-ups due to harmful gum and carbon deposits become a thing of the past.

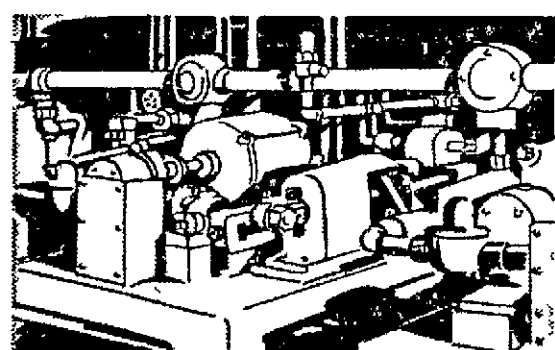

Are You The One Car Owner In 4?

In the last year, statistics show that 25% of all car owners switched gasolines. This figure is almost certain to go higher, now that Skelly Regular Gasoline with KT-3 is available to more motorists. If you are unhappy with the regular gasoline you are now using, make new Skelly Regular Gasoline with KT-3 your first choice when you switch.

Actual Laboratory Records Prove Detergent-Action KT-3 Out-Cleans The Average Of Nearly 40 Leading Additives Tested:

Remember, no matter who says what about other gasolines, this fact remains: Engineers know a clean engine is a more efficient engine. And because Skelly Regular with KT-3 out-cleans other gasolines, Skelly Regular with KT-3 is now the best regular gasoline in this area—regardless of price.

Where Skelly adds KT-3: At terminal distribution points—just before Skelly Regular Gasoline goes into the tank truck—Skelly injects KT-3. That's why you can be sure of getting KT-3 in Skelly—and only in Skelly—Regular Gasoline.

'Swan Season' Late This Year Around Bay

BY CLARA HUSSONG

Those of us who have been keeping an eye on the whistling swans, which make a stop-over, have found that, on the average, they are most numerous on Green Bay around April 6-8. On Lake Winnebago, the concentration of these birds reaches its peak during the last few days in March.

No one expected them early this year with its belated spring weather, but both on March 18 and 19, 13 of the snow-white birds were seen in open water near the mouth of the Fox River. No doubt they had arrived on Lake Winnebago just as early, if not earlier.

By April 8 there were several thousands in scattered flocks wherever there was open water near the west bay shore. The shallow, muddy edges, where they usually feed, were still frozen over, except at the mouths of the Fox, Suamico and Duck Creek.

Still Coming

To us, this meant that their concentration peak had not yet been reached. They are most numerous here when the west shore is free of ice. Then they can wade in the shallows and dip down for the underwater roots and other vegetation, which is their main food. About 99 per cent of their food is vegetable matter. The remainder is snails and small shellfish.

It is possible that this year some of these birds will still be lingering on waters of this area until the last few days of April, as they did last year. A few pairs remained on into May and even June. It is believed though, that one of each of these pairs may have been an ailing or injured bird which couldn't continue the flight. Swans mate for life, and the healthy bird does not desert its mate in such a case.

Wintered Back East

The swans spent the winter on coastal bays of the Atlantic from Chesapeake Bay to Carriacou Sound in North Carolina. Around the middle of March they leave their wintering grounds and head for the Arctic Islands and coastal shores of Alaska, Mackenzie and Siberia. Here they build huge nests of grass, moss and roots.

The female lays four or five creamy-white eggs, measuring about four inches in length.

In their flight north each spring, swans make at least one lengthy stop between their winter grounds and their breeding areas. Those which follow the Mississippi flyway, which appears to be their main route, have been for many years stopping off for several weeks on Wisconsin waters. Various spots along Lake Winnebago, and the west bay shore are traditional feeding and resting spots for these birds.

Bird watchers from all over the country come here at this season to look at and photograph the birds. They are picturesque at all times—flying over in long lines and wedges, resting on the water, or feeding, in a "bottoms up" position.

Swan Calls

They are musical too, although their calls are not whistles. One of their common calls is a mellow three-note "hoo-hoo-hoo" sound, made both while in flight, and while resting on the water. They make clucking and gabbling sounds too, some of which resemble the cackling of geese. Earlier this month we spent an evening listening to their musical cooing and hooting. It was too dark to see them, but their music was very stirring.

Whistling swans come to rest on other waters in the state besides the bay and Lake Winnebago. Especially in recent years, they've been seen on numerous lakes and rivers, including the Fox. This happens most often in those years when the birds arrive here and the west bay shore is still frozen.

A few weeks ago a friend who lives at the end of our street next to East River called to tell me that five swans were feeding in a flooded field next to the river. I walked over to watch them rooting for food in the field. No doubt, other residents of this area must have seen swans feeding this year in places where they were never seen before.

Busy Women Take to Wigs

Debbie Reynolds Has Hairdo Set, Ready For Any Occasion

BY BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"Did you notice," asked my date at the Academy Awards, "how many of the stars were wearing wigs?"

She referred not to the rugged, stop the thinning domes of the male stars, but to the profuse and orderly hairdos on the ladies.

"Wigs on women?" I said in masculine ignorance.

"Certainly. It's the latest thing."

This was news to me and since it might be the same to readers, I decided to investigate. I dropped by the set of "My Six Loves" to interrogate Debbie Reynolds. She was wearing a luxuriant sweep of blonde hair.

Boon to Busy Women

"That's the same style you wore to the Oscars—yes?"

"It is," she admitted.

"Is it—uh, yours?"

"Of course not. It's a wig."

"Lots of the girls wear them nowadays," Debbie continued, "Not just actresses, but other women, too. It's so convenient."

"Take the Oscar night. I got through work at Paramount at 6 and I had to be in Santa Monica and ready to go on the show at 7. If I had to get my hair fixed, I just couldn't have made it—impossible. But with a wig, I'm ready to go in minutes."

Has Several

What's more, she has a set of them.

"I've got a reddish-brown wig I wore in 'Rat Race.' I've got another one which is my own shade of hair. Then there is this light blonde one I've got on."

"I've also got a black wig that I now wear only on Halloween. I bought it originally so I could go places incognito."

Handy for Trip

Debbie said she wouldn't wear a wig when she had time to get her own hair set. For a busy girl like her, an ersatz head of hair is a boon.

"Especially when I go on a trip," she remarked. "Before I go, I send the wig over to Sidney (Guilarruff, the noted hair stylist) for him to set. I take it along and when I arrive in a town, I can just put it on and I'm ready to go anywhere."

Real Doctors Work on TV Show Tonight

9-10 (Channel 4-5) — You can peek over the surgeon's shoulder on Breakthrough: Heart and Artery Surgery tonight. Assuming shots of the interior of the human body don't upset you, there is fascinating material in this program. High spots of four operations are shown, and you'll hear each surgeon describing his process as he goes along. You'll meet the four patients, before and after.

6-7:30 (Channel 11) — The Cheyenne Show gives you a preview of next season, when it presents "A Man Called Ragan." As plans stand now, the four characters featured on this will be used regularly on The Cheyenne with Clint Walker and thus eliminating Ty Hardin as Bronco. These four—Larry Ward, Chad Everett, Jack Elam and Michael Greene—form a kind of unrelated Bonanza quartet.

8-7:30 (Channel 2) — Pete and Gladys brings back Jane Withers and Cliff Norton, as the Porters' touchy friends, the Norwoods. The script dumps all four into the house at the same time, and we have that old comedy situation.

7-8 (Channel 11) — Rugged Chuck Connors, who has survived all manner of hardships on The Rifleman, falls victim to jealousy this week. His steady, storekeeper Milly (Joan Taylor), becomes infatuated with a stranger (Dick Anderson) who is full of brave talk about his Civil War heroism. Chuck doesn't like this, and neither does young Mark (Johnny Crawford).

8-9 (Channel 11) — Tonight's SurfSide 6 was shot early in the season, but held back because neither Diane McBain nor Margarita Sierra are in it—and they were the two biggest publicity lures on the show. This is a reasonably engrossing mystery, in which Van Williams tries to find out who killed the wealthy Mr. Linden—after the man everybody thinks did it has been tried and found innocent.

8-9 (Channel 4-5) — 87th Precinct presents a good portrait of an old cop this week. Victor Jory plays this veteran, assigned to the 87th to wait out the six months until retirement. He proceeds to antagonize his fellow detectives, particularly by his craving for publicity, but winds up a hero after an ironic shoot-out.

9-10 (Channel 11) — Opposite Breakthrough, Ben Casey seems like it needs a transfusion. And particularly this week, when there is a sticky, oversimplified consideration of menopause which some may find tasteless. Betty Field and Carmen Mathews are two women finding it difficult to cope with the changes they are undergoing. It is Sam Jaffe, rather than Vince Edwards, who does most of the curing here; all Edwards does is growl.

10-10:12 (Channel 4-5) — Bob Cummings starts his week as Tonight's host with Patricia Morrison, Moulton Taylor, Vincent Price and Hedy Lamarr as guests. (Color).

Quality TV Shows for Children Short - Lived

Only Two Exceptions Seem to be Shari Lewis, 'Captain Kangaroo'

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The pressure groups keep calling for them and the networks keep trying to oblige, but television children's shows of superior quality have a hard time keeping alive.

Most recent casualty is NBC's "1, 2, 3—Go," whose early Sunday evening time-spot will be filled next month with a news program.

A toy manufacturer once confided that parents did 80 per cent of the buying, so that a successful children's toy was one that attracted grownups. Perhaps this rule is reversed in television, for it seems that the high-level, educational-type television program doesn't seem to attract the small fry. And, alas, many of the frowned-upon programs keep them glued to the sets.

Radio Listeners

Television, incidentally, has most difficulty interesting the high school student audience, partly because it is, along with the college-age group, more likely to be listening to radio than watching television.

Two notable exceptions to the high mortality rate among children's shows are CBS' "Captain Kangaroo" and "The Shari Lewis Show" on NBC, both of which are approved by kids and parents. "Captain Kangaroo" is a perennial, and now Shari Lewis has been renewed for another season of Saturday morning shows.

Great Showman

Miss Lewis is a show business pro whose talents know almost no bounds. She is probably one of the greatest ventriloquists in the business, has developed some wonderfully ingenious and lovable puppet characters, can sing, play musical instruments and dance.

"But I don't do a children's show," said Shari. "I just do the kind of a show I feel would entertain me. If children like it, fine I like it."

"Perhaps I would do a children's show, but I don't believe there is such a thing as 'children.' I think there is a child and another child and another child. They are of many different ages, and temperaments and appreciations. You just can't lump them together in a group."

Which may be, indeed, Miss Lewis' secret of success.

Gov. Nelson Plans to Submit Major Proposals Before Leaving Office

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — Gov. Nelson has notified two of the major policy-making boards in the state government that he wants to deliver the final proposals of his gubernatorial career on major departures in state government operations.

Nelson

He will present a series of sweeping proposals for conservation objectives when he makes a personal appearance before the state conservation commission at its meeting in Superior May 11.

Before that time he will address the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education with a message on adjusting the state colleges and universities to the enrollment explosion that will probably have even more far-reaching implications. The state college and university regents expect him to demand action looking toward a more efficient use of their plant and staff by a year-around program of instruction for undergraduates. Their guesses are right, but the Nelson message may contain other significant matters too.

The desire to put some of his proposals on the record in a serious way, with the prestige of his office associated with them, is one of the principal reasons why Nelson has deferred his expected announcement of his candidacy for U.S. senator. The governor wants his ideas to be heard, and doesn't want them to be dismissed or under-rated as the effusions of a candidate anxious to cultivate public attention.

His announcement will probably come about mid-May.

There is very little chance that Nelson's remaining program can become operative, nevertheless, during his remaining term of office.

Public institutions operate at a leisurely pace, through choice and necessity. Adjusting the century-old habits of the colleges and universities in their calendar of services will probably require a couple of years, if it is achieved. Moreover, some of these questions are so important in their implications that the administrators will be inclined to wait for the decisions of the next state administration and legislature.

Atty. Gen. John W. Reynolds has hired a woman as his public relations assistant for his gubernatorial campaign. She is the former Jean Matheson, one-time Racine newspaperwoman, who is now Mrs. James Selk, wife of a Madison newspaperman.

The Wisconsin County Boards Asso. is considering legislation for the 1963 legislative session that would protect a county against the exorbitant cost of a long modern murder trial. The concern about such county cost liability arises out of the expenditures of the recent protracted trial of three Chicago men resulting from the shooting of a Wisconsin Dells police officer. One possible proposal would set a maximum liability upon any county, with the state

There remains a reservoir of anti-Wiley feeling in the Republican party organization, as some of the reluctantly approved testimonials for the senior senator at recent party caucuses have indicated.

There are also some aspiring politicians who are strongly tempted to challenge Wiley in the Republican primary, but who are being discouraged by the anxiety of the party leaders to avoid the bitter and bruising fight within the party that would result.

Realists within the party are aware that any serious opposition to Sen. Wiley would attract thousands of Democrats to his side. That was what happened in 1956, when Wiley narrowly averted defeat for renomination under the stiff challenge of Glenn R. Davis of Waukesha, then first district congressman.

Some leading Democrats continue to show distress about the arrangements for the money-raising dinner at Milwaukee next month which features President Kennedy as the principal speaker. State Chairman Patrick Lucey, according to the complaint, promised too much of the receipts to the Democratic national committee. The Washington coffers will get the first $100,000 of the harvest, or more than half of the total even if there is a full house and a full house at $100 the plate may not be easy to achieve.

Saturn Will Make Second Test Flight

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The United States plans to launch its Saturn super rocket on a second test flight Wednesday, and as a bonus experiment, to blow it up 65 miles high to determine what happens when 95 tons of water is sprayed in the icy ionosphere.

Primary goal of the flight is to further test the propulsion system of the first stage, an eight-engine monster which pours out 1.3 million pounds of thrust, more than three times greater than any present U.S. rocket.

Objectives will be similar to last October's extremely successful first launching of the Saturn, which is a forerunner of rockets

Titles Legal On Passports

Many Frenchmen Claim Nobility to Impress Visitors

BY PAUL GHALI
Chicago Daily News Service

PARIS — When you meet a Frenchman who says he has a title, the best way to know if the title is real is to look at his passport.

If the title is legal, it should be on the passport. If it is not, chances are that your visitor is just trying to impress you.

The exception is the owner of a perfectly legitimate title who is neglectful of his rights and so does not bother to have his title placed on his passport.

Strangely enough, the French democracy, which did away with titles at the beginning of France's Third Republic in 1873, recognizes and sometimes even "legalizes" titles once bestowed by the French kings.

A special branch of the French justice department is still entrusted with the slightly obsolete task of checking on titles and allowing their owners to use them.

Many of the titles granted by Napoleon I need a regular government permission before their legal heirs can carry them.

The French president also retains the right, once reserved to kings, to acknowledge the passing of a title from the branch of the family to which it was bestowed to a collateral branch that never had it before.

President Charles de Gaulle, a queer mixture of socialism and monarchism, has exercised this right in favor of the scion of one of France's oldest ducal families, the duke of Levis-Mirepoix, well-known historian and member of the French Academy.

The title of duke of Levis-Mirepoix was not legal as the present duke was not a direct descendant of the ducal line. But, as the present head of the house of Levis, the duke asked De Gaulle to acknowledge the passing of the dukedom from the now extinct eldest branch of his family to his own branch. De Gaulle willingly obliged the historian who now can carry his title on his passport.

"No yearly 'spring break-up' headaches around here since we got our concrete streets!"

When the frost leaves the ground—that's the time concrete really proves its worth. You won't find springtime potholes, ruts and washouts on modern concrete streets. No bruised tires or frazzled tempers. No patching crews rushing out as soon as the weather breaks.

The "spring break-up" season holds no hazards for concrete streets because concrete is rigid and solid instead of soft and flexible. It spreads traffic loads across the spongy, thawed ground beneath it. And a concrete street has the strength and thickness to keep "frost boils" from working through the pavement.

That's one good reason concrete's upkeep costs stay so low. You keep on saving money year after year with all-weather concrete streets.

NEW YORK (AP) — The skies over ancient Babylon in the 600 years before the Birth of Christ have been recreated by a computer scientist.

Now it will help other pieced together bits of history inscribed on shattered Babylonian tablets. Here it will put in order the story of a people, from the prices of oil, barley and silver to great battles, Arab raids, floods and epidemics. The positions of the planets, the moon and the sun in the evening sky over Babylon at five and ten day intervals for the years from 601 B.C. to 1 A.D. have been compiled in tables by Dr. Bryant Tuckerman of the International Business Machines Corp.

By matching the observations of these heavenly bodies inscribed ed by Babylonian scholars into a strange lineup which the Babylonians could not find in earlier records. Consequently beginning

And they can relate some broken tablets to other fragments, filling in gaps of history and what we know of the world of men in the pre-Christian era.

The Babylonians were greatly preoccupied with omens. About 750 B.C. the planets came into a strange lineup which the Babylonians could not find in earlier records. Consequently beginning about this time they made systematic observations of the heavens, a record of omens woven with the history of their time.

Prof. Abraham J. Sachs, Brown University historian, is already using the new tables to date fragments of the clay tablets with their cuneiform inscriptions.

Working with the British Museum of London, where fragments of tablets have been kept since the 1880's, Prof. Sachs has already dated some 450 tablet fragments. There are some 1,300 fragments to work from.

From the records, historians will be able to graph the changing prices of Babylonian goods, the fluctuations in weather as well as the political and military actions.

They will also be able to relate the exchanges between the Babylonian and Greek civilizations.

Families Observe Easter Together By Attendance at Church Services

In most homes, the observance of Easter began with the family's attendance at church. Services in the Fox Cities began at sunrise and continued throughout the morning until noon.

The weatherman glowered and threatened but held off in making his gloomy predictions a reality until after Fox Cities residents had attended church services Easter morning. The holiday gaiety not provided by a shining sun was available in ample supply in bright spring bonnets, spotless white gloves and glistening patent leather shoes.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mytton and their children, above, attended Easter Sunday services at Trinity Lutheran Church. Above are Jacqui Lynn, Mr. Mytton, Steve, Mrs. Mytton and Craig. At right, old friends paused outside of the First Methodist church to exchange holiday greetings. They are Mrs. Joseph Graves, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Reed, Oshkosh, and Mr. and Mrs. Corwin Van Housen.

The Family of Mrs. W. F. Kruse waited outside the First Congregational Church for the first service to end Sunday morning. Waiting to attend the 11 a.m. Easter observance are Jack, William, Wendy, Kay and Mrs. Kruse.

Y Girls to Have Program For Parents

Girls in swimming, dancing and trampoline classes at the YMCA will entertain their parents and friends at a "Spring Show" at 4:45 p.m. Wednesday. The Modern Dance Class, instructed by Miss Diane Seeger, will dance to a selection from David Carroll's "Toe Tappers" in the gym. Also in the gym, at 5 p.m. will be a demonstration of class routines on the trampoline. The Water Ballet Class will present a stunt demonstration, floating patterns and a ballet solo "Autumn Leaves." This program will be at 5:30 p.m. in the Y pool. Mrs. Jeanne Skidmore is instructor.

Miss Kelly Kostka and her mother, Mrs. Donald Kostka, above, exchanged a few words Sunday morning before attending mass at St. Mary Catholic Church. At right, Miss Linda Dorow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Dorow, puts an extra polish on her new shoes just before entering Trinity Lutheran Church.

Child Must Know Truth Of Family's Black Sheep

BY ANGELO PATRI

What is one to do when a parent is an acknowledged black sheep and a child adores him or her nonetheless? Is one to let the child go on loving an unworthy parent only to have him shocked and grieved by the revelation of his unworthiness? Or is one to let the child go on mistakenly loving him? So asks the other half of the tragedy.

I think that the only way out of this difficulty is by an old, old road. "Judge not that ye be judged." Cover the failure with the mantle of silent love and go on hoping after all hope is dead. Let the child go on loving. Love cannot hurt anyone and it can heal.

when all else has failed. Leave the future to the future. There is nothing else to be done.

Keep Record Clear

Yes, I would tell the child as much of the truth as was necessary to keep the record clear, but I would be careful that in the telling I let none of my hurt and resentment slip into the tale. If I were not sure that I could do this, I would get some gentle forgiving soul to do the essential telling. It is possible to tell the truth without shocking and frightening a child. One can enlist his pity, his sympathy, his affection for the good that still lives in the black sheep. It is there or this child would not cling to his love for him.

This is no easy thing to do but it is by far the better way. When time has healed some of the wound and eased most of the pain, the child will have a clearer view of the matter and come to his own decision. He will have been saved the pain and bitterness of learning that his loved one had little right to his love. But who has a right to love. Its very nature makes it free, a gift of divine origin, bestowed alike on the just and the unjust, worthiness being out of the question. Few of us can lay claim to love on any score save that of need. The greater the sinner the greater his need.

Don't Fear Shock

I am not afraid of the shock to the child when he learns the accepted truth about his loved one. If he is told the necessary facts and left to love as he chooses, he can only be the gainer by the experience.

John's father drank so that his mother was forced to leave him and go to work to support the boy. She said nothing harsh about the boy's father but stated the facts and went on from there, leaving

John the right to love and respect his father as he did.

One day, when John was 14, he and the rest of the school were on the way home for luncheon. John's father came around the corner drunk as he could be and still stagger along. One boy called over his shoulder, tauntingly, "There's your old man, John."

John looked around, saw his father and immediately went to him, slipped his arm into his and helped him to his home.

When he got back from lunch he went up to the lad who had taunted him and said, "That was my father. Now what of it?"

"Oh, er, nothing, John. I didn't mean anything. Honest, I didn't." "See that you don't," said John, "because I'm going to punch the head off you if you even open your mouth about him."

You see John knew, but he held on, and it didn't hurt him any, nor his father either.

One such player, Julius Kozlove of Louisville, had the satisfaction of executing a trump end play in the session that made him a Life Master.

West opened the ten of diamonds, East put up the queen and Kozlove won with the king. He led the jack of hearts and discovered the trump situation when West played low and East discarded a club.

Many a player gave up at this point, but Kozlove had eaten his ration of blue grass that morning and was unwilling to surrender. The hand could be made only if South could win at least three spade tricks, so it was necessary to play East for the singleton or doubleton queen of spades.

Test Spades. Declarer tested the spades first to see if there was any real hope for the contract. East's queen dropped on the second high spade, and the first hurdle was thus cleared.

It was still necessary to find three clubs and three diamonds in the West hand. Kozlove led a club to the ace, ruffed another club, and cashed the jack of diamonds.

West obligingly followed suit to all of these tricks. Declarer led a spade to dummy's jack and ruffed a spade return.

By this time West had nothing left in his hand but K-10-8 of trumps. He had to over-ruff with the eight of trumps and then lead away from the K-10. This gave Kozlove the last two tricks, his slam and the gold card of a Life Master.

Tips for Teen Shoppers

Scene in a dress department: A out. You can better judge the flat-tery of the fashions you try. To enhance groomed looks, clothes must be special. Anything in-salacious pay not the slightest attention to her.

Why, do you suppose? Is it because they are rude or disinter-ested? The truth of the matter is they cannot take this customer seriously. Would you? Would you honestly consider her a serious prospect? More likely, you would think her both trifling and rude.

Everyday good manners require a damsel to look spruce on shop-ping tours. She owes that much consideration to those who serve her, and to the public in general. A sloppy, couldn't-care-less ap-pearance is a kind of back-hand-ed insult to other people, even strangers. It can never win re-spect or service.

There is another, almost as im-portant reason for a tidy turn-

Thrifty People

Think New Yorkers aren't a thrifty, look-to-the-future con-tingent? According to the Savings Banks Association of New York State if all the money deposited in Christmas Club accounts in New York State Savings Banks alone in 1961 were used to buy ice skates there'd be a crowd of over 5,000,000 skaters buckling the ice on the rinks this winter. And, for the ladies who know they'll never nip across the ice and who long for a statistic more in keep-ing with their day dreams—the same Christmas Club savings would buy 21,700 mink coats at $3,500 each. If you favor fowl or collect wishbones, all that money will buy you 11,500,000 turkeys.

Expensive Shot

Did you know that the first pa-tient to be treated with penicillin in the United States was given a dose of this famous antibiotic then worth $50,000, but the same dose today costs only about 50 cents — according to Dr. Van-nevay Bush, eminent scientist.

Short Order Cook Would Prefer Job as Water Boy

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This letter is for the woman who complained because her husband always asks for a glass of water in the middle of the most exciting part of a TV show. She doesn't know how lucky she is.

My big lum-mox says, "How about a nice bacon and tomato sandwich with just a little mayonnaise on it — and toasted please?" or — "Gee could I ever go for some of that terrific cheese dip — the kind with the grated onion and anchovies in it."

By the time I get the snack ready the program is over and I've tried preparing in advance. The next one has started, so I miss part of both.

but it doesn't work. He never wants what's already fixed. I've put cheese and crackers at his elbow as well as fresh fruit but he rarely touches it. He always has a yen for something "original."

I hope "Gunga Din" sees this. It may help her appreciate a man who has simple tastes. — Short-Order Cook

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 19 years old and have a four-month-old son. I am not married. The baby's father is in the Air Force and he will be back in the U.S. in a few months.

I live with my parents who have been very good to me. My father paid my doctor and hospital bills and I am now working to pay him back.

The problem is my parents are pressuring me to write to Bill and insist that we be married when he comes home. I have been writing to Bill regularly and sending him pictures of the baby. He writes back and says the baby is cute. He also says he is having a wonderful time and the U.S. will sure seem dull after Tokyo.

Please tell me what to do, Ann. I don't want to push Bill into a marriage he doesn't want. I am the reserved type who hates to impose on people. What do you say? — Celia

Dear Celia: For a young lady who considers herself "reserved" it's obvious that you cancel your reservations occasionally.

You are shy about the wrong things, Buttercup. The baby's father should have paid the doctor and hospital bills. And he ought to be sending support checks regularly for the child.

I agree it is unwise to pressure a man into a marriage he doesn't want, but Bill has a legal obligation to support his son and you should insist that he does.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing, a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Cats Top Dogs

Cats outnumber dogs in this country, according to a recent survey. It estimates that some 12,000,000 families own about 25,500,000 cats, while approximately 17,900,000 families own about 24,130,000 dogs.

Sorority Takes on Costuming Project

"A stitch in time..." keeps 35 girls very busy, dresses an entire female cast and saves Lawrence College's drama department money on its forthcoming production of Tom Taylor's melodrama, "Ticket-for-Leave Man".

The stitching is being done by the members of Alpha Delta Pi sorority, on request of one of the members, Miss Yvonne Alwin. Miss Alwin, a member of the play's costume crew, worked with Joseph Hopfensperger, director of the play, on solving the problem of where to find 19th century costumes. The play, to be presented May 8 through 12, is set in the time of Abraham Lincoln.

Miss Alwin created the costumes, studying designs, fabrics and patterns of the period. Photographs gave an indication of style and design, but the problem of color and fabric had to be solved elsewhere. Reproductions of paintings from the Metropolitan Museum, New York, and from the National Historical Society supplied the information. The West End Gazette and Godey's Ladies' Book provided actual patterns.

Problems came in adapting the patterns. Women of today are not like their ancestors. Patterns were designed for a short, narrow frame with a 17 inch waist. "The college girl of today," noted Miss Alwin, "barely remembers a waist that small!"

Costumes had to fit the needs of the theater, to look like costumes the audience would expect from the mid-19th century and still be authentic in line and style. Final changes came with the selection of the cast and Miss Alwin prepared the patterns for the cutting table.

"When I put everything together, all I could think of was: What have I gotten these girls in for?" A few of the girls had sewing experience; some were adept at Fitting and assembling costumes for Lawrence College's May 8 through 12 production of Tom Taylor's melodrama, "Ticket-for-Leave Man", are keeping the members of Alpha Delta Pi sorority busy.

The girls researched the dress of the mid-19th century period, and created the costumes for the play. Above, Miss Virginia Allen, Douglas, Mich., is fitted in her costume by Miss Yvonne Alwin, Homewood, Ill., in charge of the crew, and Miss Marjorie Middleton, Honolulu, Hawaii, right.

The workroom becomes a beehive of activity, left, as the girls work to stay ahead of schedule. Miss Sandra Kleppin, Rockford, Ill., and Kathryn Gedhardt, Broadview, Ill., hem a skirt as Miss Gail Huttenbranch, New York, N. Y., and Miss Cherrie Torkleson, Clear Lake, check costume detailing for Miss Brenda Haist, Terre Haute, Ind.

Russian Abacus Serves as Destroyer of Person's Ego

BY CHARLOTTE EBENER

Chicago Daily News Service

KYRENIA, Cyprus — Of all the presents a husband can bring his wife, an abacus is the most humiliating.

My husband bought my abacus in the GUM department store of Alma Ata, Russian Turkistan. He said the girls in Alma Ata look like me and they can all work an abacus with flying fingers.

(Miss Ebener's husband is George Weller of the Chicago Daily News Foreign Service.)

"Now with your abacus there is no need for you to do the household accounts three times to get the right answer," he said. "Just learn to add from right to left, push these beads up and down and you'll get the correct answer in seconds."

I pushed the beads for a month and gave up in despair. Then a so-called friend, Gordon Gaskill of the Readers Digest, consulted an encyclopedia and presented me with a home-made "simplified abacus."

Abacus Expert Won

This American-made abacus added from left to right up to 1665 and had only 21 beads to figure out. Gaskill pointed out that in a recent competition between the most advanced Americans computing machine and an expert on the abacus, the man my Alma Ata abacus is doing to with the abacus won. I can add my fingers and toes quicker.

I took my Russian and my only souvenir of Russia.

American-made abacus to an old Cypriot Turk who had his own. This he could work with lightning speed, but not mine. "Abacus very personal thing," he said. "You must be child to learn."

Another friend in Kyrenia received a beautiful abacus made in Hong Kong of ebony and ivory beads. She turned it into a lovely lamp base.

Not Even Good Lamp

There's no such use for my Russian abacus. It is made of tin, even though my husband assures me it was the deluxe model in Alma Ata.

But I have found a use for my Alma Ata abacus. Whenever conversation lags at a dinner party, we all do our sums with paper and pencil, then try to get the same answer on the abacus. Nobody has succeeded yet, although everyone pretends to understand the system of moving beads up and down on the decimal principle. We end up feeling like

My husband, insensitive to what my Alma Ata abacus is doing to my social life, refuses to let me throw it away because it is our

Soaring Souffle

The higher the souffle, the more skilled the chef. That's what many cookbooks contend. To help your souffle stand proud and tall, wrap a double-thick 3-inch strip of aluminum foil around the souffle dish. Interlock the foil by tuck-in one end of the strip into the other. When baking time is complete, gently remove the foil collar.

CONFUSED ABOUT TITLE

How should a letter be addressed to a clergyman and his wife? When the wife was in the hospital a few weeks ago, I was preparing to send her a get well card. My husband felt that I should address the envelope "Reverend Mrs. X."

If such a prefix is correct, does this also apply to other professions such as the medical? Would a doctor's wife be referred to as "Dr.?"

Louise Davis Answers:

An envelope addressed to a clergyman and his wife should be The Rev. Walter Powell and Mrs. Powell or The Rev. and Mrs. Walter Powell. When addressing the envelope to the wife, it should be Mrs. Walter Powell as the earned title of reverend doesn't belong to her but to her husband. A physician's wife is also Mrs. George Livingston and cannot be called Dr. But if she too happens to have a degree in medicine, she is Dr. Ruth Livingston professionally and becomes Mrs. George socially and in relation to her husband. If Dr. Ruth Livingston's husband is also a physician, you would address

Designing Woman

BY ELIZABETH HILLYER

Successful planning makes a room look as if it had no faults. To be coped with—the eye is too charmed with smooth effect to notice whether or not there were problems to solve. Usually there are, as in this room, where cornices and table-like shelves may at first seem no more than fresh styling. But take a second look—imagine the room without the cornices and shelves, and bare of all furnishings.

was needed badly—the jutting pillar couldn't be in a worse position to create an awkward effect. By bordering the ceiling with cornices, interior designer Fred Shrallow, A.I.D., unified the various wall sections and made the pillar less of an intrusion. His deep shelf toward the corner provides great convenience and the base for a grouping of accessories now, we've had a drab green and beige color scheme while we waited to change the green to turquoise. But I think I've changed my mind about the turquoise and would prefer beige for the walls and medium blue for the two green chairs which need recovering, or would this turn out to be an uninteresting color scheme, too? The sofa is beige with heavy

Even People With Modest Means Find Much to Leave in Wills

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

People in modest circumstances may feel that it is not necessary for them to prepare a will to leave their earthly possessions to their heirs in the belief that what they own is too small to bother with.

Nevertheless, the average man owns much more than he readily recognizes, and many men have been very careful of dividing small possessions.

Stephen Hopkins, who was a passenger on the Mayflower, died at Plymouth in 1644 and he was careful to leave a nice description of his livestock so that the heirs could benefit, even by a half of a cow.

His will specified that "I do bequeath to my son Giles Hopkins, my Great Bull . . . I also give to my daughter Constance Snow, my mare, and to my daughter Deborah Hopkins (I give) the broadhorned black cow named Monday. Also I give and bequeath unto my daughter Damaris, the cow named Damaris, and the heifer and the white faced calf and half of the cow named Motley.

"I also I give to my daughter Ruth, the cow called Red Cole, and her calf and also half of the cow with the curled horn. Also I give to my daughter Elizabeth the cow called Smykins and her calf, and the other half of the cow with the curled horn, and the yearling heifer without a taylor . . . and four silver spoons to each (of my daughters).

Sam Houston deemed his watch and chain of sufficient value to specify in his will that it should go to his wife, "subject to her disposition." To his son he left his sword and the will advised that the sword should "never be drawn, only in defence of the Constitution, the laws and liberties of his country."

Andrew Jackson whose will gave no thought to the possibility that slaves would one day be emancipated, included a bequest to his daughter-in-law. It read:

"I hereby recognize with this bequest the gift I made her (at the time of her) marriage, of the Negro Gracy which I bought for her as her maid and seamster, plained his point of view in this way:

"I request that the Rev. Henry Butler read the prayers which are customary at burials, and also preach a sermon taking his text from Solomon, 'All is vanity.'

"In consideration of this service to me, I bestow upon him all my hypocrisy which he may need as a modern good man; but as my finances are low and they cannot conveniently pay his fees, I hope he will please accept the will for the deed."

Another fellow chose to get a decent burial by deception. A Frenchman he appeared one day at the hospital of Auxere where he was treated for his illness.

Honorable Burial
To one of the nurses, he dictated a will which left everything he had — a very considerable amount, according to the will — but it gave all of his wealth to the hospital only on the condition that he be provided with "a decent and honorable burial."

The hospital authorities chose to respond liberally, and instead of providing him with an ordinary funeral, they gave him one which was only given to people of high rank at that time.

When the hospital authorities had consigned him to the grave, they sought to collect the money and properties which he had left them. Alas, he was a pauper and had nothing at all — except a decent and honorable burial.

A Dr. Dunlap of Canada left a somewhat malicious will which read like this:

"To my eldest sister, Joan, my five-acre field to console her for being married to a man she is obliged to henpeck.

"To my second sister, Sally, the cottage with its garden because — as no one is likely to marry her — it will be large enough to lodge her.

Better Christian
"To my third sister, Kate, the family Bible so that she may become a better Christian than she is.

"To my fourth sister, Mary, my grandmother's snuff box so that she will not be ashamed to take snuff before company.

"To my fifth sister, Lydia, my silver drinking cup for reasons known to herself.

"To my brother, James, my big silver watch so that he may know the hour at which men ought to rise from their beds.

"To my brother — in — law, Christopher, my best pipe out of gratitude that he married my sister Maggie whom no man of taste would have taken.

"To my friend, John Caddell, a silver teapot so that — he being afflicted with a slatternly wife — may drink tea from it as solace.

"To young John, my silver tankard which I would rather leave to his father, Old John, but did not because I know he would melt it down to make temperance medals."

Positive diagnosis can be made by X-ray methods.

Treatment varies with the severity. CLOTHES FOR SPACE TRAVEL?

Who'll do the laundry in the spaceship on a year-long trip to Mars? Nobody! Astronauts probably will wear chemically-treated paper clothes which will absorb odors and can be thrown away!

Dear Doctor, I would have a rheumatic heart lesion make ironing difficult: I can't seem to do it without getting dizzy and feeling odd.—MRS. R. L.

Ironing, compared with some other household chores, can be heavy or light work—depending on how you do it.

Is the board too high or too low? Do you stand up, or do you sit on a stool? Do you keep at it too long at a time? Does the room get uncomfortably warm? Do you do much bending, to pick things up? (This last could account for the dizziness.)

If you have to bend over the board, or stretch to reach it, you are wasting energy and hence putting a needless burden on the heart.

The same is true if you stand gratefully that he married my sister Maggie whom no man of taste would have taken.

Use Your Head; Ease Housework Drudgery

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Can housework be made easier for a woman with heart trouble? Yes. There are some tricks to it, of course, and these same tricks can be used by people who don't have heart trouble.

This letter brought the matter to mind.

Easter Rites Held For Deaf-Mutes

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—About 150 worshippers from five states took part in an Easter Sunday church service in sign language.

Most of those present could neither hear nor speak.

The sermon was given in sign language by a deaf mute, the Rev. Carter Bearden of the Southern Baptist Convention, Atlanta.

Gov. Bert Combs welcomed the group. Those attending were from Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan and New York.

5 Appleton Residents Hurt In 2 Crashes

Car's Engine Catches Fire in Accident on County Trunk BB

Five persons were injured in two automobile accidents Sunday night, three of them in one accident on County Trunk BB at the St. Mary Cemetery curve west of Appleton about 8:53 p.m. A second accident at Wisconsin Avenue and Division Street injured two about 9:30 p.m.

Injured on BB were Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Kessler, 1707 S. Driscoll St., and Glenn Gilbert, 35, 1000 E. Glendale Ave. Kessler, 65, received a possible broken rib and Mrs. Kessler had injuries to her leg. Gilbert received cuts on his face.

In the collision at Wisconsin Avenue and Division Street, David Schreiber, 3, son of Mrs. Diane V. Schreiber, 1350 W. Commercial St., received cuts and was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital where he was treated and released. Mrs. Francis L. Schultes, 1014 N. Superior St., received a stiff neck after a car driven by her husband collided with the other car at the intersection. She was treated by a physician. David's mother, driver of the second car, was not injured.

Police said the accident on County Trunk BB occurred when Gilbert's car, traveling west, collided with the Kessler car, which was going east.

Gilbert said he thought he saw a car approaching him in his lane of traffic, swerved to avoid a collision and went into the opposite lane of traffic. His car struck the Kessler car in the front end. The engine of the Kessler vehicle caught fire, witnesses said. The fire was put out by police.

All three of the injured in the accident are in good condition at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

A landmark in Kaukauna since the 1880's is disappearing to make room for a new funeral home. Workmen are shown tearing down a home constructed by H. A. Frambach, first mayor of the city. The dwelling was long a show place of the Fox Cities with its marble fireplaces and many refinements.

Tribe Committee Hits 'Enterprises' Proposal For Tract Use

BY JERRY VAN RYZIN
Post-Crescent News Service

KESHENA — A move to prevent the tribal corporation, Menominee Enterprises, Inc., from selling, leasing or mortgaging any Menominee land to outsiders will be instituted by a special committee of tribal members.

Francis Leon, chairman of the special group, said that an injunction will be sought, probably in Federal Court in Milwaukee, to halt plans for leasing of Wolf River and akes sites to non-Menominees.

Leon said that a sum of $3,000 is needed in contributions now and a total of $5,000 eventually to pay legal fees and costs in bringing the court action.

At a recent meeting the board of directors of Menominee Enterprises Inc. voted to adopt a long-range 15-year plan for recreational development on the former reservation, now Menominee County.

A study by an outside firm, Neilan Engineers, indicates that the county can accommodate 4,000 cottages and several resorts without overcrowding.

Selected Sites
The corporation decided to initiate the program this year with the development of 600 lots, each about one-half acre in size, on selected Wolf River and lake sites.

Former County Teacher Dies in Green Bay

SEYMOUR — Mrs. Margaret Koepp, 51, 318 S. Main St., former school teacher in the city and Outagamie County towns, died at 11:30 p.m. Saturday in Green Bay after a long illness. She was born Nov. 20, 1910, in Boyd.

Mrs. Koepp taught schools in the Town of Osborn and in 1959 accepted a position at Seymour Elementary School. She was a graduate of Stanley Teachers College and Oshkosh State College. Funeral services will be at 9:30 a.m. Thursday at St. Joseph Catholic Church, Boyd, with burial in the parish cemetery. Friends may call at Supple, Funeral Home, Boyd.

lots or used as a down payment before May 1. Non-Menominees, it was announced, will be permitted to lease sites only.

Recreational development will expand job opportunities for the Indians, now limited to work at the tribal sawmill at Neopit and to forestry operations, and will create more opportunity for private business ventures, according to corporation officials.

Another benefit cited is that construction of cottages, resorts, restaurants and other business places will add greatly to the taxable base in the new county. At present, Menominee Enterprises, Inc., is paying 94 per cent of all taxes in the county. For 1962 the bill is $480,857 for the corporation.

Lease and purchase agreements, it is announced, will contain construction requirements and will require the use of Menominee Mills lumber and materials both in original construction and later maintenance.

Opposition to the plans to lease Menominee land to others than those on the tribal role is based on the contention that the rights of Menominees are being violated, Leon said.

Steel Shares Move Lower

Rest of List on Exchange Averages Irregularly Higher

NEW YORK (AP) — Steels sagged in an irregularly higher stock market early this afternoon. Trading was moderate.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .60 at 255.10 with industrials up .60, rails up .40 and utilities up .30.

Gains of selected blue chips bolstered the average despite losses which ran to more than 2 points for some of the steels.

While plus and minus signs were mingled pretty freely, advances of some high quality issues went from 1 to 3 points.

Losses of more than 2 points were shown by U.S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet and Lukens. Jones & Laughlin was off about 2 and Republic Steel stretched its decline to about 3. Bethlehem edged off a fraction.

These losses were more than counterbalanced by gains among some pivotal chemicals, tobaccos and other issues. Eastman Kodak, reporting a 20 per cent gain in profits, advanced about 3 points. Air Reduction and Liggett & Myers, rose more than a point each.

Kansas City Southern advanced more than 2. Philip Morris was another 2-point gainer. Du Pont, Lorillard and Phelps Dodge were up about a point each.

Big Three motors were all easy after making slight gains at the start.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .69 at 694.94.

Prices moved irregularly higher in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Bales of Stored Bags owned by Gilbert Paper Co., a subsidiary of Mead Corp., housed in the old Soo Line warehouse at 219 Main St., Neenah, were damaged by fire early this morning. Three Neenah fire

Inquest Ordered Into Death Of Woman on State 114

Witnesses Describe Girls' Fight On Highway Outside Menasha

OSHKOSH — An inquest has been ordered into the seventh Winneshago County traffic death of 1962 — that late Saturday night of Mrs. Richard (Bonnie Boushley) Fulcer, 20, 240 1/2 Grant St., Neenah, fatally injured when struck by a car in the middle of Highway 114 a short distance outside the Menasha city limits.

The inquest was ordered today by Dist. Atty. Jack Steinhilber after examining witnesses to the incident, described as a fight on the road between two girls. The woman was struck by an auto driven by Breve D. Porter, 19, 110 1/2 Main St., Neenah, who will not be charged, says Steinhilber. Also struck was Beverly Voldness, 18, route 1, Neenah, in satisfactory condition in Theda Clark Memorial Hospital for treatment of a broken right leg. According to witnesses, the two women began fighting inside the Pied Piper beer bar, just outside the city limits. The bartender ordered them outside and a fight ensued in the middle of the highway, the district attorney quoted witnesses. About 20 other young people were standing around to watch.

Richard H. Van Dyke, 822 Marquette St., Menasha, said he saw Porter's car approaching, yelled a warning to the others standing about and pulled Miss Voldness to partially out of the car's path. Miss Voldness was seriously injured March 3 while a passenger in a two-car fatal crash at U.S. 45 and County Trunk J. She received back injuries and a broken left elbow and collarbone. On this date in 1961, five traffic deaths had been recorded in Winneshago County. The death was the second of the year in the Town of Menasha.

Funeral services for Mrs. Fulcer will be at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday at the Laemmrich Funeral Home, Menasha, where friends may call after 4 p.m. today.

Mrs. Fulcer is survived by her husband, a daughter, her parents, Mrs. Marion Boushley, Menasha, and Raymond Boushley, Neenah, five sisters, and five brothers.

Investigation of Home Death Will Continue

Heart Attack Probable Cause, Autopsy Shows

OSHKOSH — District Atty. Jack Steinhilber said this morning that his office and the sheriff's department are continuing their investigation into the death of Mrs. May Gokey, 61, 2831 Harrison St., Oshkosh.

Mrs. Gokey was found dead in her home on County Trunk AA, just outside the city of Oshkosh, shortly before noon Saturday. An autopsy showed that death resulted from a heart attack but there were three or four bruises on her face and one broken rib, the district attorney stated.

The body originally had been face down but was found face up when police arrived, Steinhilber said. Several people are being questioned by his office.

Funeral Tuesday Police were called by James Mathwig, proprietor of the Vice President Tavern, immediately north of Mrs. Gokey's home. He told police he had not seen her for several days, was concerned and decided to investigate. Mrs. Gokey had lived alone since the death of her husband in 1953. She had no children.

Gov. Gaylord Nelson will speak at the session, which begins at 12:30 p.m. at the Legion on the Lake Clubhouse.

Mrs. Clarence Bredendick of Neenah is an adult member of the committee.

Fireman Hurt Fighting Blaze At Warehouse

NEENAH — A 25-year-old fireman suffered a cut over his left eye and burns to the right shoulder and left elbow early today as flames destroyed an ancient frame warehouse at 219 Main Street.

In satisfactory condition at Theda Clark Memorial Hospital is Jack E. Land, of 227 1/2 Third St. He was injured while operating a hose line at the scene of the fire, which was reported at 1:01 a.m.

Owner of the warehouse, the Soo Line Railroad, was unable to give an estimate of damage. The building was constructed "at least 75 years ago" by the Wisconsin Central Railroad, and used as a freight house for many years.

Arthur E. Haselov, president of the Gilbert Paper Co., estimated damage to Gilbert-owned bales of rags stored in the building at about $22,500.

Brothers Spend Night in Jail For Misbehavior

NEENAH — Two Neenah brothers were released on $25 bond each Sunday morning after they were held in jail overnight on disorderly conduct charges.

They are Michael Berenger, 22, and Carl Berenger, 21, both of route 1, Neenah. The youths were taken into custody at 3:40 a.m. Sunday after police arrested three carloads of boys for speeding on S. Commercial Street. Michael was the driver of one of the cars.

Police said Michael was jailed after he repeatedly used vulgar language at the police station and insulted policemen.

His brother, Carl, then came to the desk and said:

"If you are going to lock my brother up, you'll have to lock me up, too."

The desk sergeant obliged, and Carl spent the rest of the night in another cell.

Both will appear before Judge Arnold J. Cane in County Court, Branch No. 2, May 1 to answer charges of disorderly conduct.

Youths Plead Guilty Of Damaging School

Damage to Neenah High Included Smashed Fire Alarm Boxes, Windows

OSHKOSH — Three Neenah area youths this morning pleaded guilty to criminal damage of property and were ordered jailed until Friday morning to await sentencing by County Judge Arnold J. Cane.

They are Timothy J. Ahrens, 19, 421 Ninth St., Neenah; George W. Kessler, 19, 304 S. Commercial St., Neenah, and Gary J. Gries, 19, 121 Courtney Ct., town of Neenah.

They were charged with destruction at Neenah High School, which included pouring acid on the floor, smashing fire alarm boxes, breaking windows, and dumping a large can of wax.

The police also said they had painted "Ole Memorial Abode" on the side of the gymnasium. This paint will have to be sand-blasted, in order to remove the painted words.

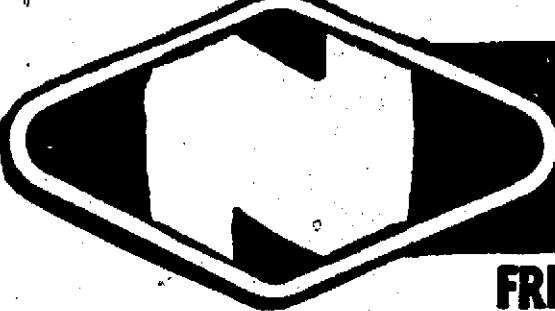

Entered Without Breaking The three are graduates of Neenah High School, and were able to enter the school without breaking any locks, police said.

County Judge Cane said he had received letters from Neenah business and professional men, at testing to the character of the three youths, and said he was distraught that three boys from such good families should have gotten into trouble.

1912, in the remodeled Casino, with Leo G. Schussmann as principal and Josephine Driscoll as the other teacher. Two courses were open to the students, a two-year course for eighth grade graduates and a one year course for those with a high school diploma.

When spring came a class of eight was graduated. Their motto was "Honor Waits at Labor's Gate." They were Martha Banning, now Mrs. Forrest Banning, Kaukauna; Miss Martha Buelow, Kaukauna; Winifred Cripps, now Mrs. Ben Hartzheim, Appleton; Winifred Ryan, now Sister Mary Margaret of the Dominican Order, Chicago, and the late Edna Bartch, Mary Caine, Helen O'Hanlon, and Ruth Ryan.

Special students that year were Hazel Garvey, now Mrs. Leo Turner, Lannon, Wis.; Mary Weiler, now Mrs. Frank Eichenberger, Lakewood; Florence Keating, now Mrs. Warner Spoerl, Sherwood, and the late Erna Carwood.

The present school building was built during 1917-1918 with John E. Hale succeeding Schussmann as the principal. The building committee was R. M. Radsch, John Tracy and W. L. Lyons. The site for the new building was presented to the school by Charles W. Stribley.

New Building in Use
By this time the enrollment had increased and there were four instructors. The school board at that time consisted of Charles Willis, Supt. A. G. Meating, and L. F. Nelson. The class of 1919 was the first group to graduate from the new normal school building.

After the death of Hale in 1919, Walter P. Hagman came to Kaukauna to assume the duties of principal. Hagman's achievements were well known throughout the state. He was recognized as one of the leading educators in the state, holding several positions in educational organizations.

Hagman continued in this capacity until 1951. He headed the school through periods of war and depression, and through periods of peak enrollment and when only eight students occupied the school. Mention his name to any former student and you will hear nothing but glowing praise. His portrait holds a prominent place in the assembly room at the school.

Miss Margaret Phillips
Miss Margaret Phillips came to the Normal School in 1919 and remained until 1951. During her long tenure Miss Phillips was an inspiration to the campus students as well as to the practice teacher under her care.

In 1951 S. W. Ihlenfeldt became principal of the school. He came to the school as an instructor in 1950. In 1956 the name of the school was officially changed to Outagamie County College and the position of principal was changed to president. Ihlenfeldt left in November of 1961 to become president of Marinette County Teachers College.

E. H. Gordon became the next president, after having taught at the college since 1953.

The present staff includes E. H. Gordon, president; Miss Dora Dessarau, Mrs. Dorothea Koepke, Mrs. Mary Rifelman, Miss Marguerite Van Hulst and Miss Mary Toman. Mrs. John Reuter is office secretary, Mrs. William Grapentine is the cook and Art Lemke is the custodian.

Five youths escaped serious injury this morning when the car in which they were riding collided with an oil truck on U.S. 41 in the Town of Vandenberg. Injured was the driver of the car, Thomas Steinfeldt, 22, Green Bay, cuts and abrasions; Carolyn Fox, 19, Green Bay, who lost two teeth, and Pat Houlihan, 18, of 1316 W. Melvin, Appleton, who had cuts of the lips and knee and back abrasions, and a possible broken ankle.

Uninjured in the collision were Margaret McGinty, 19, 511 1/2 S. Locust St., Appleton, and Raymond Delforge, 20, Green Bay.

The truck driver, David L. Fredricksen, 29, route 1, Neenah, who was not injured, told police the car carrying the youths came across the center line as he was driving north on 41. He said to avoid hitting the car he drove the empty oil truck into the rear of the truck and broke off the two last wheels.

Steinfeldt said his four passengers were asleep in the car and he did not know what happened. He said they were taking Appleton passengers home from Green Bay. He said their car would not start after a party last night and they remained overnight in Green Bay.

year teacher training institution. Upon completion of the two-year course a student is awarded a diploma and a license to teach in the state of Wisconsin. After two years of satisfactory teaching he is awarded a five-year license. By the time the five-year license is expired the teacher must have completed the final two years of work at some degree-granting institution. When a bachelor's degree is awarded, the teacher may apply for an unlimited certificate and is a full fledged teacher.

With the 12-week summer session being offered at Wisconsin State College, a graduate of a county college can complete work toward a degree in two summers and two semesters of evening or Saturday classes.

Reason for Private School, Topic of Panel Discussion

MENASHA — "Why a private elementary school?" will be the subject of a panel discussion at 7:45 p.m., net Monday, at Winnebago Day School, 375 Winnebago Ave.

Moderator for the program will be Selden Spencer, president of the school's board of directors. He will discuss the aims of the school, introduce the faculty and present them as a panel to discuss how these aims are put into practice in the classroom. An invitation is extended to interested parents of elementary school-age children.

Subjects to be included in the panel discussion will be: the advantages due to the low pupil-teacher ratio; how basic skills, democracy and leadership are taught and retained; a comprehensive report on the school's goals and the art of stimulating intellectual curiosity.

Serving on the panel will be Mrs. Armon Chappelle, directress and fifth and sixth grade instructor; Mrs. Marvin King, third school, introduce the faculty and present them as a panel to discuss how these aims are put into practice in the classroom. the fair, park and conservation committee of the county board. The park caretakers will begin work this week repairing and painting tables.

Most summer weekends have been reserved by companies, organizations and families who want to use the park's facilities and buildings. Reservations are taken beginning in January of each year and are to be made with Ristow.

The park has one large building and a refreshment stand used by the larger groups, and a second refreshment stand located adjacent to the car parking area.

Lifeguard Service

Lifeguard service is provided in cooperation with the Village of Winnebago. The park is located on the east side of the village and along Lake Winnebago.

Winnebago County has a second park on Lake Poygan which is being developed with boat docks and camping facilities. Top soil was scarified last fall and will be rolled and gravel surface installed. Outdoor toilets will be built this spring.

New Menasha Park

Work has started on developing Menasha's new Butte des Morts park at Mathewson and Butte des Morts streets.

Park Supt. Harry Kargus said some trees have to be cut down in low areas so they can be filled and topped with black dirt before turf is seeded. Shrubs will be planted in the open areas.

A shelter house will be built, probably next year. The council has approved the shelter, as long as it doesn't cost more than $8,000. The new park replaces the old Garfield Park, one block to the north. Menasha Wooden Ware Corp. donated six lots for the new park and the city bought three more adjacent lots.

Kargus said playground equipment, picnic tables and benches are ready to put in the parks as soon as the ground is dry enough. Maintenance equipment was reconditioned during the winter.

Trees are being trimmed in Smith Park, and other cleanup work is to start soon.

Park crews recovered 17 park benches from the Fox River at Smith Park, apparently thrown in by vandals.

Picnics Areas can be reserved

Picnics areas can be reserved in Menasha's parks by calling the park office.

Edgar Patterson, Neenah superintendent of park grounds, said that the city's picnic and playground areas are rapidly being put in shape for the summer's activities.

Picnic reservations for Washington, Riverside and Doty parks may be made by calling the recreation department. Reservations are required for groups larger than 25 persons.

Family groups may picnic without reservations at the three Neenah parks.

Being readied for the summer recreation program are Riverside Park, Kimberly Point, Doty Park, Water Street playground areas near the hospital, Cook Park, Shattuck Park, the Green, Washington Park, Second Ward Park, Laudan Park and the Marathon playground, near the main offices of Marathon.

The model airplane court at the end of Byrd Avenue will be used again this summer. The city's tennis courts are ready, and the ball diamonds are being prepared for use.

Crews in Little Chute, Kimberly and Kaukauna have begun general clean-up work in parks preparing for the summer season. Painting and repair of park benches and equipment was done during the winter months.

All parks will open when weather permits. No reservations are needed for the Little Chute park. It is equipped with grills and tables and the shelter is usually open on a "first come" basis.

Sunset Point Park, Kimberly, is one of the more rapidly growing parks in the area. It is well equipped with picnic tables and grills and the large shelter is suitable for use by two small groups or one large group. Reservations for the shelter are made by contacting the police department near the Grignon Home.

ment. Indications are the shelter will be given heavy use this summer as practically every weekend has been reserved. No limitations are made as to residency of persons desiring to use facilities.

Kaukauna Facilities
Kaukauna has a shelter at LaFollette Park, which can be reserved for a $2 fee by contacting the recreation director. If the shelter is not reserved, it can be used on a "first come" basis. A shelter is being erected at Riverside Park. This facility is expected to be ready early in July, providing the city with two parks with shelters.

All city parks are equipped with grills and picnic tables. A small shelter, designed for very small groups, is available at the park near the Grignon Home.

Springtime . . . is tree planting time

But think before you plant

The right tree will dignify your home . . . Soften the straight lines of construction . . . give you cooling shade from hot summer sun. The right trees will mature to give beauty to you, your neighborhood and your children. Though the tree you purchase from the nursery now seems small, don't be fooled. Think how much room it will need when it's full grown. Ask your nurseryman, "How tall will this tree grow?" and "How far will it spread?" Look down. Remember, big trees need big root systems. Don't plant trees that will clog sewer lines . . . or heave walks or patio. Look around. Don't plant trees that will damage the roof of your home. Look up. Don't plant a tree that will grow into overhead wires. Don't plant a problem tree. And, remember, fast growth often means weak growth.

If you must plant near wires, plant low growing trees such as:

- Flowering crabapples
- Shakespeare or Flame are good varieties
- Globe Hawthorn
- Washington, Toba, Laval, and Paul's Scarlet are also good varieties
- Globe cherries
- Globe ash
- Columnar Mountain Ash

Plant these at least 15 feet (horizontal distance) from overhead wires:

- Columnar maples
- Armstrong red or Columnar Norway
- Columnar cherries
- Pyramidal Littleleaf Linden

Don't plant these near overhead wires:

- Silver maple
- Box Elder
- American Elm
- Chinese Elm
- Poplars
- Sugar Maple

Stanley Cup Won By Maple Leafs

Toronto Breaks Home-Ice Barrier With 2-1 Decision

CHICAGO (AP)—The Toronto Maple Leafs broke the home ice barrier Sunday night, whipping the Chicago Black Hawks 2-1 in the first game of the Stanley Cup playoffs.

In taking the final playoffs games to 2, the Leafs won their first game away from home in the entire series.

In the semifinals, all four of their victories against New York were in Toronto, as were their previous three triumphs against the defending Stanley Cup champion Hawks.

It was a sad ending for Jim Norris, Hawk owner Coach Rudy Plous, General Manager Tommy Ivan and the wild Chicago fans to see the 4-foot high, 25-pound cup, steeped in tradition since 1893, brought out on the ice and presented to Toronto.

The shining piece of hardware then was carried to the Leafs dressing room. There, wing Frank Mahovich held it high above his head, shouting, "Here it is! We've got it!"

Champagne Poured
Then bottles of champagne were poured into it and each player quaffed and laughed.

The Hawks and Leafs battled through two scoreless periods during which Chicago goalie Glenn Hall was forced to make 27 saves to only 12 for Toronto's Don Simmons.

At 8:56 of the third period, Bobby Hull took a pass from Murray Balfour, who was behind the Toronto net, and slipped past Bobby Baun to score his eighth goal of the playoffs.

The crowd of 16,666 went daffy with the Hawks' 1-0 lead. Flowers were plucked off Easter bonnets and tossed onto the ice along with more than 50 men's fedoras, firecrackers, two bottles of red ink, a pair of shoes, beer cans, raw eggs, paper horns, paper, etc.

It took 10 minutes to clear it up—the biggest rain of debris of the season.

Less than two minutes of action after the Hawks' goal, Toronto tied it on a shot by Bob Nevin. The clincher came at 14:14, Dickie Duff ramming it in while Chicago's Eric Nesterenko was serving time in the penalty box.

In all, 10 penalties were called in the game for a record 87 in one series. The old infraction record of 77 was set in the Chicago-Montreal semifinals this season and last.

"Now that it's all over, it can be told that Ron Stewart had to play with injured ribs frozen (deadened by a drug) and Bob Pulford had to play with a drooping shoulder since the first playoff game," said Toronto Coach Punch Imlach.

"We just outplayed them and couldn't be denied. We had to do it in 10 minutes and we did it."

New York Yankee third baseman Clete Boyer puts tag on the sliding Ty Cline, of the Cleveland Indians, in the first game of Sunday's doubleheader at Yankee Stadium. The putout came after Cline tried to go to third on Tito Francona's grounder to Yankee hurler

Bill Stafford. Stafford threw to rookie Tommy Tresh at second base, and Cline was out when Tresh fired to Boyer at third. The Umpire is Bill Kinnamon. Cleveland swept two from the Yankees to move into first place.

by Kirkland and Held had knocked in the first two runs.

Dick Donovan, who had pitched two straight shutouts, gave up his first run on Yogi Berra's homer in the second. Rookie Tom Tresh came through with his first major league homer, a two-run blast in the sixth.

When Donovan walked two in a row in the eighth he gave way to Bob Allen who walked two more, forcing in a run before Barry Latman got the side out. When Latman walked three leading the bases in the ninth, Frank Funk came on and finally got the side out by striking out Roger Maris after a run scored on an infield hit.

The Yanks' M & M boys were held to a total of one single—a hunt over the pitcher's head by Mickey Mantle in the eighth inning of the second game.

8 Different Hurlers Have Won Games for Law-less Pirates

PITTSBURGH (AP)—With ace pitcher Vernon Law benched because of a sore shoulder, the Pittsburgh Pirates weren't considered "much of a threat in the National League this season."

After 10 games, Law still has shoulder trouble, but the underdog Pirates aren't having pitching problems. Eight different pitchers have won games in the Pirates' streak that has tied the modern major league mark for consecutive victories at the beginning of a season.

Latest to win is Bob Veale, a rookie southpaw who pitched his first complete game in the majors Sunday, a 4-3 decision over the winless New York Mets.

"It's a very elating moment," the 26-year-old Veale said after he had allowed the Mets only one earned run on seven hits and two walks.

"It's always nice to win," he said.

Records Fall In WIBC Pin Tournament

Janesville Woman Leads All-Events; LA Team Hits 3,061

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Two records fell and new leaders took over the top spots in every division as competition became rough in the Women's International Bowling Congress national tournament this weekend.

A Los Angeles team, Linbrook Bowl, rolled a searing 3,061 series in their battle to the top of division 1 (for teams with 750 or better averages). The new mark erased a 1959 record held by Bill Smithkamp of Chrysler of Detroit.

Wilma Gullory led the LA team with games of 227, 207, 226-660. The team totals were 945, 1072 and 1,044.

Another record toppled when Jesse Miller of Hampton, Va., rolled a 290 game. She bowls for Tenpin Coliseum of Alexandria, Va. Her new mark is one pin higher than the 1952 record of Phyllis Notaro of Buffalo, N.Y.

Miss Miller rolled her record game in teaming with Martha Morgan of Hampton to take over the lead in the doubles. Doris Porter of Lemon Grove, Calif., is the new singles leader with a 196, 254, 216-666.

Turf Paradise of Phoenix, Ariz., has a 2459 to lead division 2 (teams under 750 average).

Gwen Cook of Janesville, Wis., leads in the all events division with a 1,791, but scores have been tabulated only through April 9.

Former Boxing Overlord Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Babe McCoy, once the overlord of boxing in Southern California, is dead. He was barred from the game in his later years.

McCoy, 62, died of a heart attack early Sunday at his hotel. McCoy was the matchmaker for promoter Cal Eaton and together they revived interest and attendance in boxing during the late World War II years and made the downtown Olympic Auditorium one of the most successful clubs in the nation.

McCoy, whose real name Harry Rudolph, was the central figure in a sensational probe of boxing in matchmaker in Los Angeles.

Shaw Finds Home for His Low-Ball Pitching

BY DAVE O'HARA

MILWAUKEE (AP)—After five seasons in the American League, Milwaukee right-hander Bob Shaw thinks he has found a home for his low ball pitching with the Braves in the National League.

Shaw, obtained from the Kansas City Athletics in a deal last December, earned his first National League victory Sunday by defeating the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-3 on a five-hitter.

"I hung a curve up there and Tommy Davis, belted it for a homer and three runs in the first inning," Shaw said. "After that my control was good and I mowed the ball in and out. Mainly, though, I tried to keep my pitches low around the knees."

Shaw said he didn't think there was much difference in plate umpiring between the two leagues. But, when pressed, he admitted that there may be a slight edge on the low strike one in the National League while umpires in the other circuit possibly give a little more extra on the high pitches.

Shaw has allowed only one earned run in dropping a 2-1 decision to Cincinnati and defeating the Dodgers. The three Los Angeles runs were unearned because of errors by Shaw.

Shaw was signed by Detroit in 1953 when John McHale, now president and general manager of the Braves, was general manager of the Tigers. He later was traded to the Chicago White Sox and split 1956 and as a result was barred for life from boxing activities in California.

A State Senate investigating committee ruled that McCoy was guilty of managing fighters and cutting in on the profits of their purses while employed as a matchmaker in Los Angeles.

two decisions against the Dodgers in the 1959 World Series. He had a 12-14 record with Chicago and the Athletics last season.

"We figured he would be a tremendous help because he knows how to pitch and is new to our league," said Manager Birdie Tebbetts of the Braves. "He has the advantage on the hitters over here and is going to help plenty. We've started him against two top clubs and he has done a fine job. Fortunately, we got him a few runs today. We didn't in Cincinnati."

Ham Richardson Beats McKinley In Dallas Meet

DALLAS (AP)—Ham Richardson, the old Davis Cup star who plays his tennis on the weekends now, says things have to be just right for him to do well.

Ham reached that point Sunday, it seems, because he just about swept young Chuck McKinley, a current Davis Cupper, off the court in winning the Dallas Country Club invitation. The score was 6-4, 6-2 and it meant Richardson, a Dallas investment broker, had moved to the championship with the loss of only one set in four matches.

"This was the first time in a long while that I felt like I could make the big point when I had to," said Richardson, who turned down a bid from Davis Cup officials last year to return to the wars and has given no indication he will see it any differently in the future.

Richardson then teamed with Vic Seixas of Philadelphia to beat Antonio Palafox and Chris Crawford of Corpus Christi University for the doubles championship, 6-3, 8-6.

Braves' Shaw Pitches Win Over Dodgers

Shaw then collected the first of his four walks to fill the bases.

Through Will's Legs
Joe Adcock, experiencing another bad spring, struck out, but Frank Bolling hit a hopping grounder into the hole between short and third. The ball bounced through Will's legs for an error, permitting Jones and Tommie Aaron to score. Crandall then singled for another run.

The Braves added two runs in the seventh on singles by Crandall and McMillan, a safe bunt by Shaw, a wild pitch, and a pair of walks.

Milwaukee southpaw ace Warren Spahn observes his 41st birthday today, but is scheduled for the bench. The Braves planned to send right-hander Lew Burdette against the Dodgers tonight in the first night game of the season at County Stadium. Burdette, loser of both starts this year, is due to be opposed by 19-year-old rookie Joe Moller, a right-hander with a 1-0 record.

CLAIMS

Here are three important ways your company can benefit from Blue Cross-Blue Shield protection:

- 1 Your administrative personnel can do the job they're supposed to do—the work of your business, not the filing of health protection claims.
- 2 Your company will not be involved in the administering of claims. The third party claim settlements by Blue Cross and Blue Shield keep your company out of the middle on questionable claims... and also preserve the confidential aspect of claims.
- 3 Your company will benefit from the close working relationship that Blue Cross and Blue Shield have with hospitals and doctors. This closeness to those actually providing health care services results in protection always being in step with medical progress.

There's no substitute for the BEST!

Trade Bill May Change Nation

BY SYLVIA PORTER

While Congress is home for Easter, work will continue in Washington on the writing of the historic Trade Expansion Act of 1962—a law which is destined to affect the lives of tens of millions of American businessmen, wage-earners and farmers and in fact, to reshape the free world.

The time-table now indicates the bill being prepared by the house ways and means committee will reach the floor of the House in early May. There the debate will reach crescendo over whether to give President Kennedy the most sweeping powers ever held by a U.S. President to slash the tariff walls shielding our industries from foreign competition and to enter into a trade partnership with the booming nations of a united Europe.

Outlook Brightening

The outlook is brightening for a bill which will give the president close to what he asked for in January. He won't get all the authority he wants but he'll get the key fundamentals, according to the latest appraisals. And this means that:

During the years ahead, the tariff walls protecting our industries and workers from Europe's competition will crumble—giving Europe's producers the chance to sell much more here.

During the years ahead too, the tariff walls protecting Europe's industries and workers from our competition will crumble as well—giving U.S. producers the chance to sell more here.

Against this background, the already imperative need to keep prices and wages under control so we can meet foreign competition at home and abroad becomes even more imperative—and the timing of steel's attempt to hike prices last week becomes even more incredible.

Imports are sure to soar as our tariff cuts make foreign goods less expensive. Competition from quality attractively priced imports is fierce now and is sure to become fiercer. The made-in-U.S. product has to be able to compete at home or millions of American consumers are going to shift to the made-abroad item.

Our exports also will climb sharply as Europe's tariff cuts make our products less expensive. But they'll not climb as fast as they should be, and we'll not hold our customers unless our prices remain competitive. There is simply no disputing the challenge.

What we have to do is plain. We must invest tens of billions more than we are now investing in modernizing our factories and equipment so we can turn out better goods at cheaper prices. This was the reason behind Big Steel's efforts to boost prices—to get the extra profits to put into new plants—but raising prices is the worst way to get this money now. Liberalizing the depreciation rules so corporations investing in modernization can write off the cost of the plants to expand our exports. Many companies could join the ranks of exporters if they would only bother to get guidance from the Commerce Department or their own trade associations. Many now exporting could hike their sales abroad if they'd only bother to re-learn the techniques of hard selling and servicing.

We must pour increasing billions into research to develop superior products and new ones to intrigue the home and foreign markets.

And we must keep our production costs under control.

The trade bill is moving through Congress and if Congress passes a strong, imaginative law, it will pave the way for our partnership in a world both more united and more competitive than ever before. It's a turning point in our life as a nation.

The steel industry could have and graham crackers and a line of cookies, principally for the grocery trade throughout California and portions of Arizona, Oregon and Nevada. Annual sales volume exceeds $3½ million, about 60 per cent of which is in soda crackers and saltines.

Production and office facilities are in Los Angeles with undeveloped real estate at Santa Fe Springs, California, on which the company will soon construct a modern, automated plant covering over 100,000 square feet. Pacific presently employs about 175 people.

There will be no change in personnel, trade names, customer relations or administrative policies. The operation will continue under the present management group.
